WHAT IS WIC

EMPOWERING FAMILIES
WITH FOOD, NUTRITION
EDUCATION, AND MORE

HALF OF ALL INFANTS BORN IN COLORADO ARE ON WIC.

WHAT IS WIC?

WIC is the nation's most successful public health nutrition program. We provide healthy food, nutrition education, breastfeeding guidance, and community support to income-eligible pregnant women, moms of infants, and children up to 5 years old.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

- Pregnant women.
- Mothers of babies up to 6 months old.
- Mothers who are breastfeeding babies up to 12 months old.
- Babies and kids up to 5 years old.

Many people don't realize they're eligible for WIC. Households with a low to medium income or who receive Medicaid, SNAP, TANF or FDPIR are income-eligible for WIC.

WE'RE HERE FOR YOU

Did you know? Colorado WIC offers:

HEALTHY FOOD + NUTRITION TIPS

We help you feed your kids nutritious meals.

We provide:

- Monthly benefits to buy fruits, vegetables, whole grains, iron-rich foods, milk, cheese, yogurt, formula and more.
- An EBT card and smartphone app to make shopping for WIC foods easy.
- Tips on how to shop for healthy food, how to cook it, and how to encourage your kids to eat it.
- A larger food package for mothers who breastfeed exclusively to help them stay healthy.

A COMMUNITY OF SUPPORT

We offer a network of experts and peers for education and guidance:

- Nutritionists.
- Breastfeeding specialists.
- Breast pumps.
- Mother-to-mother support.

REFERRALS

We introduce you to care beyond WIC, including:

- Healthcare professionals such as pediatricians and dentists.
- Immunization services.
- Other services.

Connect with WIC today:

- Request an appointment at ColoradoWICsignup.com

- Visit ColoradoWIC.com

- Call 1-855-855-4626

WIC does not ask for, keep, or share information regarding visa status or citizenship. This institution is an equal opportunity provider.

HELPING MILITARY FAMILIES WITH SPECIAL NEEDS THRIVE

EFMP Exceptional
Family Member
Program

THE EXCEPTIONAL FAMILY MEMBER PROGRAM HAS MORE THAN JUST ONE CONNECTION POINT FOR FAMILIES.
 THE PROGRAM HAS THREE SEPARATE COMPONENTS: IDENTIFICATION & ENROLLMENT, ASSIGNMENT COORDINATION AND FAMILY SUPPORT.

IDENTIFICATION & ENROLLMENT

ASSIGNMENT COORDINATION

FAMILY SUPPORT

Enrollment in the EFMP is mandatory for active-duty military members. When a family member is identified with special medical and/or educational needs, the special needs are documented through enrollment in the EFMP. Medical services work with families to coordinate identification and enrollment in EFMP.

Medical and military personnel departments work with military members and families to coordinate assignments. While the military mission is the driving force, enrollment in EFMP ensures that a family member's special medical and/or educational needs are considered, since appropriate services may be limited in some locations.

EFMP Family Support plays a critical role in helping families navigate the Identification and Enrollment and Assignment Coordination processes. They also connect families with resources and support – helping them to become their own best advocate – with services including:

- Information and referral for military support providers and community services
- Education and outreach
- Referral to other Military and Family Support
- Warm handoffs to the EFMP at the next location
- Non-clinical case management

WHY ENROLL?
 Enrollment ensures that the family member's documented medical and/or educational needs are considered during the assignment process. EFMP enrollment is required before you may enroll in TRICARE ECHO.

Where are EFMP Family Support providers located?

You can find EFMP Family Support providers primarily at installation Military and Family Support Centers. If you're not located near an installation, consult your service branch website for more information or call Military OneSource at 800-342-9647.

How do I contact my nearest EFMP?

Contact information is available via:

- Your service branch website
- Your installation Military and Family Support Centers
- Military INSTALLATIONS at <https://installations.militaryonesource.mil/>
- Military OneSource at 800-342-9647

SUPPORTING MILITARY FAMILIES WITH SPECIAL MEDICAL AND EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

SPECIAL MEDICAL NEEDS

You should enroll in EFMP if you have a:

spouse

child

dependent adult
of any age

- Who requires special medical services for a chronic condition
- Who receives ongoing services from a medical specialist
- Who has significant behavioral health concerns

SPECIAL EDUCATION NEEDS

You should enroll if you have a:

child

from birth to age 21

- Who receives special education services through an Individualized Education Program
- Who receives special medical services
- Who receives early intervention through an Individualized Family Service Plan
- Or is eligible for these services

Specific criteria can be found in DOD Instruction 1315.19

Connect with EFMP & Me

EFMP & Me is a tailored-to-you online tool that offers:

- Step-by-step support for EFMP enrollment, PCS preparation, deployment and more
- Customized help navigating anything from a new diagnosis to education options
- Convenient 24-hour access to EFMP resources from a range of programs

Find out more at

<https://efmpandme.militaryonesource.mil/>

Have questions?

You can visit your nearest installation EFMP Family Support office at your local Military and Family Support Center or call Military OneSource anytime to schedule an appointment with a special needs consultant. 800-342-9647

Boundary Map
for Fort Carson

Welcome to Fountain-Fort Carson School District 8! We are proud to serve the families who serve our country. Nearly 70% of our student and family population is military-connected, and we're dedicated to making your transition into FFC8 seamless. The whole student is at the center of all our decisions, and we make adjustments based on what each child needs. Our dedicated and passionate team members work hard to meet the unique needs of every student, preparing them for tomorrow's responsibilities.

Fountain-Fort Carson School District 8

- Long history of serving military-connected families
- Modern, safe schools
- Rigorous, relevant curriculum tied to Colorado Academic Standards
- Outstanding graduation statistics
- Award-winning JROTC
- Rich mix of cultural backgrounds and experiences among students and staff
- Whole child support, including physical and mental health and trauma-informed care

Preschool and Kindergarten

Preschool and Kindergarten students have fun and begin a journey to develop a love for learning. At these levels, children engage in purposeful play to learn strong social, language, and early learning skills. Our classrooms provide a safe, secure, and responsive environment where students are encouraged to explore, experiment, create, imagine, wonder, problem-solve, take risks, and make discoveries as they experience success and build positive relationships.

Special Education

At FFC8, we are committed to empowering all students to achieve their full potential through engaging instruction that focuses on their strengths and supports their needs. We work in partnership with families to help students make meaningful connections that foster success not only in school, but also at home and in their community. With courage and dedication, we strive to provide a supportive environment that enables every student to thrive.

Career & Technical Education

Our career clusters offer students a comprehensive education that includes both core academics and valuable workforce readiness skills, bridging the gap between classroom learning and real-world experiences. FFC8 middle and high schools offer award winning Career and Technical Education Student Organizations that support student extracurricular learning and involvement in many areas. Through hands-on learning, students gain practical experience and develop the skills necessary to succeed in their future careers, as well as in college and life beyond the classroom.

STEM Programming

Students engage in challenging and meaningful programming that promotes creativity, innovation, collaboration, problem-solving, critical thinking, and self-directed learning. By establishing a solid foundation in STEM education, students are better equipped for future success. All schools in FFC8 offer programming aligned with the national Project Lead The Way curriculum.

Athletics

Our athletics program emphasizes pride, academic accountability, community service, and the essential ideals of virtuous sportsmanship. Students foster character development and personal growth through a well-rounded athletic experience.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

Q: What is a notarization?

A: Notarization is a confirmation of identity and that a signature is valid. It is not a confirmation that a document is true, accurate, or valid.

Q: What is a power of attorney?

A: A power of attorney (POA) is a document that gives someone else authority to act on your behalf in your absence. No one is required to accept a POA. The more specific a POA is the more likely it will be accepted.

Q: What is a certified copy?

A: It does not certify that the primary document is genuine. It is a copy of a document that has on it an endorsement that it is a true copy of the document presented. You must have the original document with you for our office to certify a copy.

Q: Do I have to attend the divorce brief to get a divorce?

A: You must attend the divorce brief before speaking to an attorney at our office for legal advice. However, the brief is not a requirement to file for divorce since we cannot submit anything on your behalf, and you do not file anything at our office.

Q: Can the Army give me a lawyer for my court case?

A: We cannot represent you in court, write or file any motions, but we can help you prepare to represent yourself. Legal Assistance attorneys can provide legal advice, negotiate on your behalf, prepare some legal documents (estate planning, military administrative rebuttals), review contracts/leases, and more.

MILITARY AND FAMILY LIFE COUNSELOR PROGRAM

Military families face unique challenges. They may struggle with issues such as deployment-related stress, reintegration and pressures of managing parenting and finances while a loved one is deployed.

To support military families facing these or additional challenges, the MFLC program:

- » Provides short-term, non-medical counseling services to service members and their families at no cost
- » Provides psycho-education to help military service members and their families understand the impact of deployments, family reunions following deployments and other stresses related to the military life
- » Augments existing military support services
- » Offers flexible service delivery
- » Can provide services on or off of military installations
- » Can provide services to individuals, couples, families and groups

With the exception of child abuse, domestic abuse and duty to warn situations services are private and confidential.

ABOUT MILITARY AND FAMILY LIFE COUNSELORS

- » Masters or Doctorate-level licensed counselors
- » Work with families, individuals, couples and children
- » Work with existing military and family support programs to complement services provided

NON-MEDICAL COUNSELING SERVICES

Life skills

- » Anger management
- » Communication
- » Relationship issues
- » Conflict resolution
- » Parenting
- » Decision-making skills

Military lifestyle

SUMMARY Fort Carson PUBLIC/ON POST SCHOOL DISTRICTS

- 1 Families with school-age children residing on Fort Carson attend school in Fountain-Fort Carson SD #8, which is a public school district.
- 2 There are four elementary schools (1st-5th grade) and one middle school (6th-8th grade) on post. Students in grades 9-12 are bussed off-post to Fountain Fort Carson High School. 26 school districts are within a fifty mile radius
- 3 Due to the number of choices in districts, families planning to reside off post are encouraged to research local schools to determine which will meet their children's needs.
- 4 Colorado is unique because it is an Open Enrollment state, which allows students to enroll at schools they are not zoned. Open enrollment is not a guarantee; the school must have room and accept your application.
- 5 The only way to guarantee your child attends a specific district is to reside in that district.
- 6 There are various deadlines for applications and lotteries for open enrollment in each district. School Liaison Officers can provide this information or help you determine the school district in which you live.
- 7 The Army encourages families to contact their School Liaison Officer prior to PCSing to the next duty station.

Army Regulation requires all Soldiers to report to the Housing Service Office (HSO). Fort Carson's HSO is located at 1225 Evans St., Room 189, before making any permanent off-post living arrangements. Call (719)-526-5219 or 526-9413.

- Permissive TDY: In 2017 the Army changed its Permissive TDY requirements. Soldiers are no longer required to visit the HSO to obtain an HSO stamp.
- A Very Helpful Website: Moving is complicated. If you have questions about Basic Allowance for Housing (BAH), Temporary Living Expense (TLE), Dislocation Allowance (DLA), and a hundred other topics, visit the Defense Travel Management Office website at <https://www.travel.dod.mil/>. Note: Do not be confused. TLE is for Continental United States change in duty assignments while TLA (Temporary Living Allowance) is for overseas duty assignments. If you are looking for the BAH rate, Fort Carson's zip code is 80913.

Homes.mil, a DoD-sponsored site, is designed to improve and speed up the process for service members and their families to secure available off-base community housing rentals. Log on to <http://www.homes.mil>.

In spring 2022, the Army improved the Army PCS Move App now known as the "My PCS App". This user-friendly App will improve the Soldiers, Civilians, and their Families Permanent Change of Station (PCS) experience while enhancing their Quality of Life. The "My PCS App" is for the Soldier by the Soldier. Download today from your Google Play Store and Apple Store!

The HSO Offers:

- A list of available rentals and For-Sales
- Briefings on the local area
- Reviews, clarifies or explains lease contracts
- Mediation in disputes between tenants and landlords
- Volunteer Realtor Program to assist with rentals
- A display of area maps
- Sales booklets and brochures
- Exemption to Policy and Certificates of Non- Availability (CNAs)

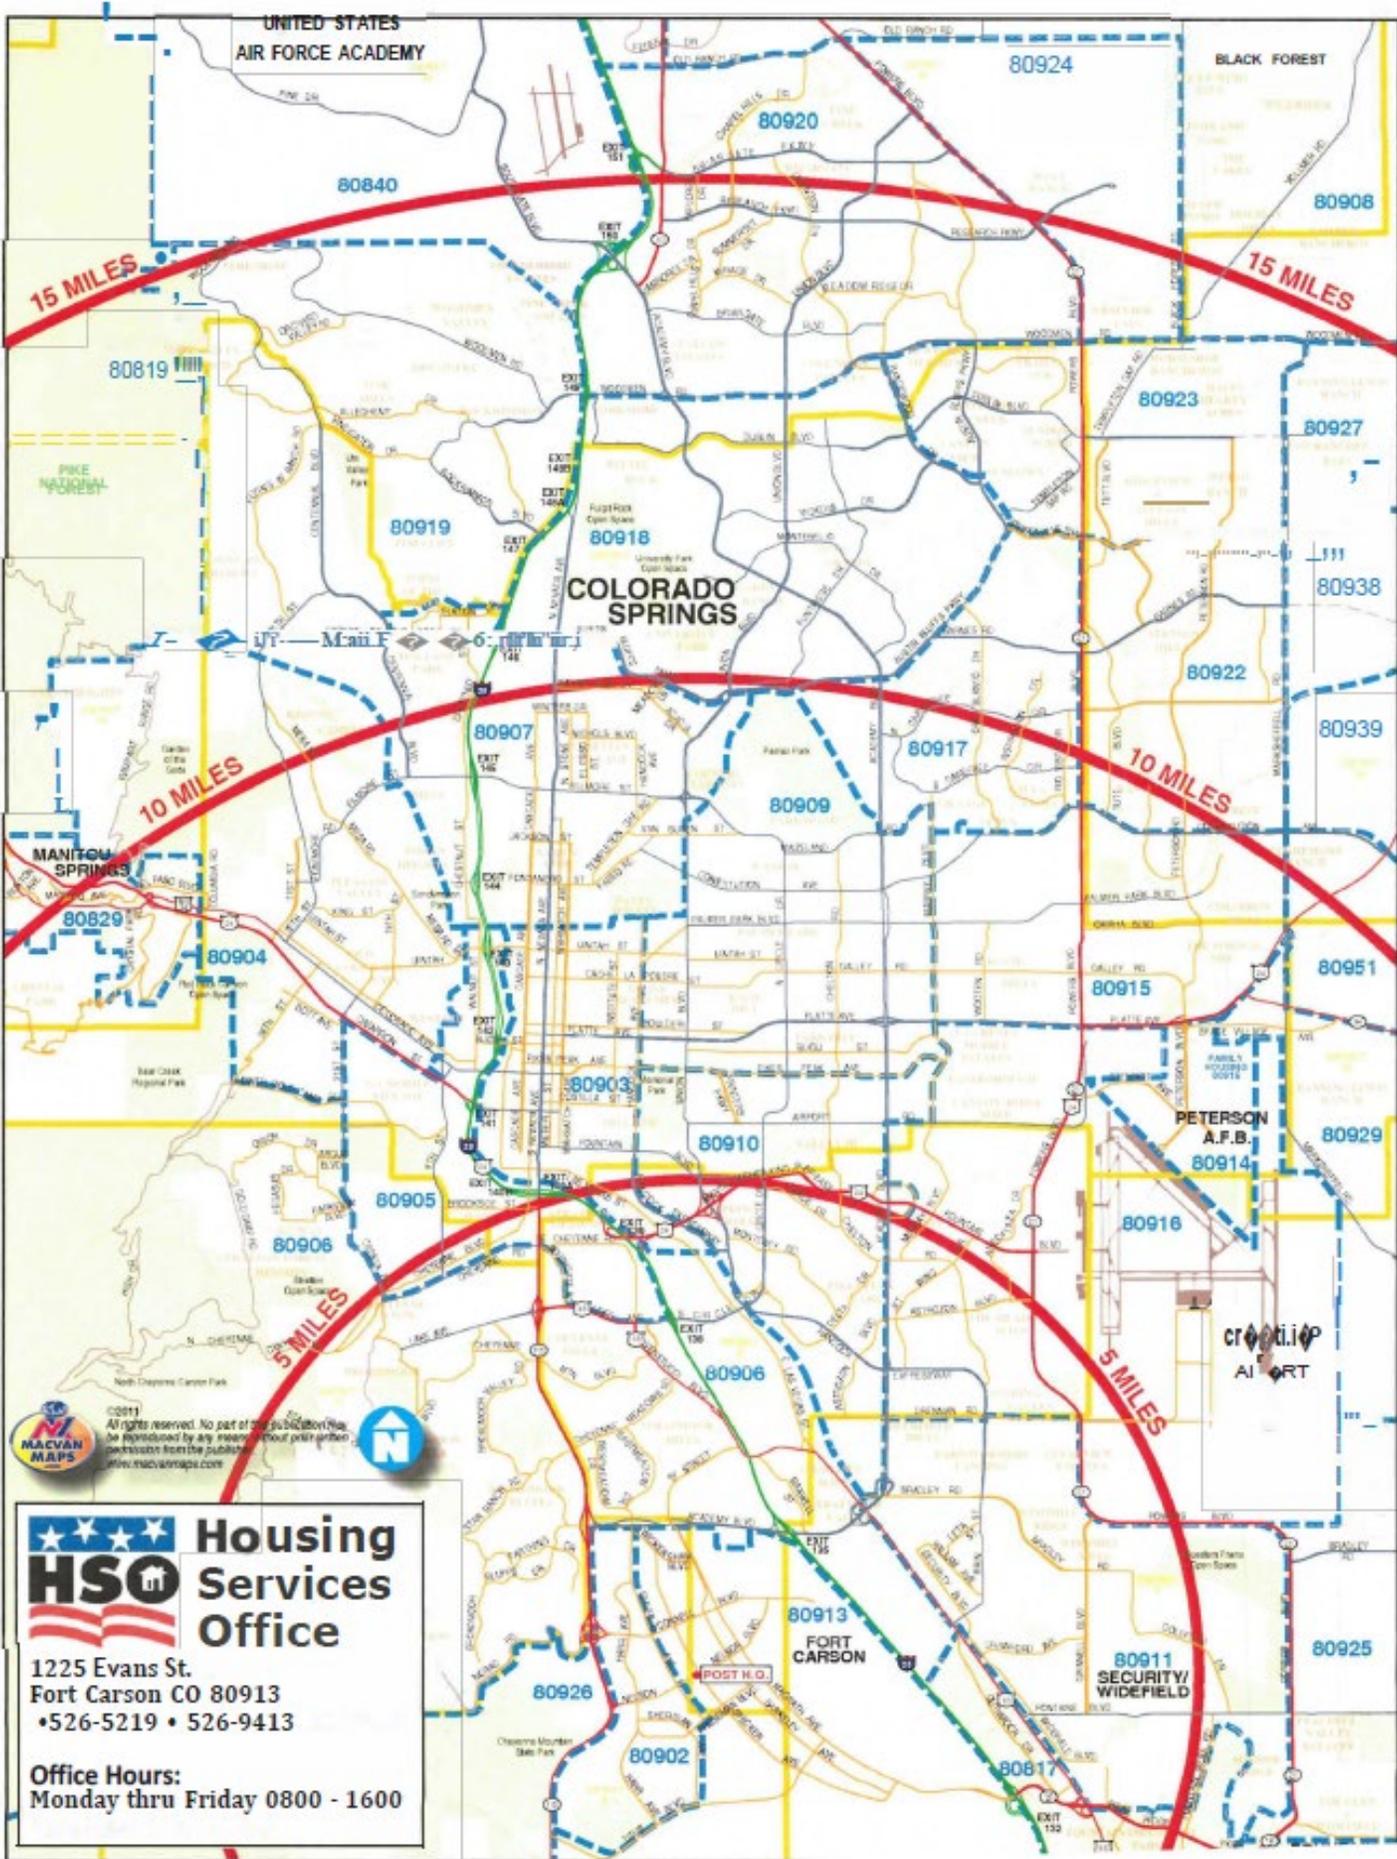

Army Barracks Management (Program Handbook / AR 420-1 Army Facilities Management, Chapter 3)

All Single Soldiers E5 and below: Must reside in the barracks. Barracks utilization rate must be 95% or higher, post wide, with zero Geographical Bachelors in barracks for approval.

Dual Military (E1-E5) Without Dependents Stationed Apart for more than 120 days: Will be treated like single Soldiers in accordance with AR420-1, 3-20d (4). In plain speak that means single Soldiers are required to live in the barracks. Contact your unit leaders or the HSO if you believe you qualify for an exception.

Pregnant Single Soldiers: Cannot stay in the barracks. Each must move out of the barracks and either on-post family housing managed by Fort Carson Family Homes or off post. Pregnant single Soldiers will need to apply for Basic Allowance for Housing, aka BAH. To do this the Soldier should visit the HSO. There, the Soldier will learn about a memorandum requesting authorization to live off-post signed by her company commander, a pregnancy statement from the hospital, and more. The HSO is located at Building 1225 on Evans Street, Room 189.

The following information has been compiled to help tenants avoid or resolve rental-housing disagreements. This information should not be substituted for legal advice from attorneys or other qualified advisors. In addition, the Colorado Revised Statutes, section 38-12-101 and 13-40-101 may be referenced.

The Application Processing Fee: Each applicant must pay an Application Processing Fee. This fee covers the cost of obtaining credit and background reports and other minor administrative costs incurred in processing your application. This fee is NOT refundable to you unless the unit is rented to another individual prior to your application being processed. It is an estimation of the actual out-of-pocket expenses to be incurred while verifying and qualifying the submitted rental application. It is possible that an additional fee may be required to be paid at a later time for additionally required verification procedures. By paying these fee(s) the Applicant acknowledges and understands that the Application Fee is a non-refundable charge to cover the costs of processing the application. The fee may be paid in cash or money order or by personal check although the process may be delayed as we may wait for the check to clear.

Credit Report: The Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) is an American federal law that regulates the collection, dissemination, and use of consumer credit information. It, along with the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), forms the base of consumer credit rights in the United States. A landlord may use Tenant Credit Reports to evaluate rental applications – as long as they follow the provisions of the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA). The FCRA is designed to protect the privacy of consumer report information and to guarantee that the information supplied by consumer reporting agencies (CRAs) is as accurate as possible. The FCRA requires landlords who deny a lease based on information in the applicant's consumer report to provide the applicant with an "adverse action notice". The 3 big CRAs Experian, Trans Union, and Equifax, do not interact with information furnishers directly as a result of consumer disputes. They use a system called E-Oscar.

Security Deposit: A security deposit, (a.k.a. damage or cleaning deposit) is a payment of money by a tenant to a landlord to cover damage or cleaning of a rental unit. A landlord can keep all or part of the security deposit to cover damage caused by the tenant's negligence, intentional abuse or cleaning beyond normal wear and tear. A landlord can utilize small claims court to collect money owed for damages that exceed the security deposit collected.

Holding Deposit: A deposit used to hold a rental unit while the application is being processed. The deposit is refundable if the renter's application is denied. It is usually non-refundable if the renter changes his mind about renting after being approved. This holding deposit will be turned into a security deposit when the renter takes possession of the rental unit. Return of the Deposit – When a tenant leaves a rental unit, the landlord has 30 days (unless stipulated differently in the lease) to return the security deposit or send a written list of damages and the amount of money owed for repairs to the tenant. The above must be sent to the tenant's last known address. If a security deposit is wrongly withheld, the tenant could receive a judgement of three times the amount wrongfully withheld, and court costs and attorney's fees. A tenant may utilize small claims court for this purpose.

Pet Deposit: A pet deposit (sometimes called an "animal deposit") is additional money you are asked to pay in advance to offset any damages caused by an animal during the time you are renting your house/apartment. It's basically an additional security deposit. The pet deposit may be non-refundable based on your property manager and used to pay for de-fleaing and cleaning your rental unit.

Breed Restrictions: Landlords in Colorado Springs have various rules about pets. It may be difficult finding a home due to breed restrictions. The common breeds that are not permitted, Pit Bull, Rottweiler, American Staffordshire Terriers, English Staffordshire Bull Terriers, and Mastiffs, Akita, Mastiffs and wolf hybrids.

Leases: A lease (a written rental agreement) sets up the rules between the tenant and the landlord regarding the rental unit. A lease should protect both the landlord and the tenant. Leases can be set for any length of time, but most are for six months or one year. Examples of other provisions a lease sets forth are: identification of the leased property, number of persons who are to reside in the unit, security deposit, rent amount, and rent due date, late penalty fee, utility responsibilities, yard care, trash removal, repair responsibility, subleasing and whether pets are allowed. During the term of a lease, changes cannot be made to the lease unless mutually agreed to by both the landlord and the tenant. The lease must be signed by the landlord and the tenant.

If there is something in the lease that you do not understand or agree with, DO NOT SIGN IT until the issue is resolved. Once the lease is signed, both parties are bound to it. A standard lease form can be obtained from a book or stationery store. Provisions can be added to these forms to meet any special needs. If there is not a written lease and the rent is paid monthly, the tenancy is considered month-to-month. To protect both of you, make sure any agreements that are made that are not part of the original lease are put into writing no matter how much you trust each other. If anything goes wrong, most judges will not even let "oral agreements" be presented in court.

Attorney Fees Clause: Most standard leases contain a clause stating that one side of the other will be required to pay attorney's fees if the matter goes to court. Be on the lookout for clauses that state the resident will have to pay attorney's fees no matter which side brings the case. Such a clause could prevent you from suing the landlord if he or she breaches the lease. Look for language stating that the "prevailing party" will receive attorney's fees. This means that whichever side loses the court case will have to pay.

Military Clause: It is important that your lease contain a "military clause". A standard military clause allows soldiers to terminate his or her lease early if the soldier receives PCS orders sending him or her to a new duty station. When exercising the right, the Service Member is still required to give a 30 day written notice to the landlord accompanied by a set of official orders. If a landlord gives you a lease without a "military clause," you should offer to type or write a clause into the lease. The Housing Services Office at Fort Carson (HSO) can give you a sample language to use.

Written Notice: Should contain the following: 1) the date, 2) the address of the rental unit, 3) the dollar amount of the rent owed or the lease violation, 4) the tenant's option of paying the rent or complying with the lease within three days of vacating the unit, 5) the notice must be signed by the landlord or the agent for the landlord, 6) if the tenant pays the full rent owed and/or complies with other terms of the lease within 3 days, this cancels the eviction, and 7) the Computation of time law states that the 3 day period begins the day after the notice is given, and the last day of the 3 days cannot end on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal Holiday.

Renters Insurance: If you rent or own your home, you need a homeowner's policy to protect your home and its contents. If you rent a house, condominium, townhouse, or apartment, your landlord will generally have a policy that covers the building. However, your landlord's policy will not cover your belongings that are in the home or on the property. Renters insurance is inexpensive at about $20 or less per month. Renters insurance protects your belongings in the event of a fire, a theft, or other unforeseen events. To ensure you are compensated for any belongings you lose from a fire, storm or other catastrophe, you should inventory all of your personal belongings. Your inventory should list each item, its value, and serial number. Photograph or videotape each room, including closets, open drawers, storage buildings, and your garage. Keep receipts for major items in a fireproof place.

Moving In: At the time of move in, a tenant should create a file in which to keep important documents related to their rental housing. The file should contain receipts for all deposits, the lease, an inspection checklist of damages to the unit, monthly rent receipts and any other documents that pertain to their rental housing. Before moving into a rental unit, it is very important for the landlord and the tenant to examine the condition of the rental unit. All existing damages in the rental unit should be listed in writing and signed by both the landlord and the tenant. This will avoid untold arguments pertaining to the refund of the security deposit and additional damage claims. If the landlord will not sign the list of existing damages noted, then a neutral witness should be present when the family inspects the rental unit. This witness can sign the existing damage list. The Housing Services Office (HSO) can give you a sample of a Move-in Inspection checklist to use.

Moving Out: Before moving out, both the tenant and landlord should inspect the rental unit. A written statement of the condition of the unit should be signed by both parties. If the landlord refuses to inspect the unit at move-out, then the tenant should obtain a neutral witness to check the condition of the unit with them. Again, a statement of the condition should be signed by both.

Breaking the lease: Generally, tenants cannot break a lease for the landlord's failure to make repairs unless the repairs are very serious, such as a leaking roof or broken furnace. Landlords also are not responsible for crime in the surrounding neighborhood. They do have a legal duty to take reasonable measures to keep the building safe, but this usually means only keeping working locks on all building entrances. Thus, it is very important that you thoroughly research a neighborhood before renting an apartment or house. Under most circumstances, a landlord should not "lockout" a tenant for any reason without a court order. The landlord may be held responsible for interfering with the tenant's right to "peaceful possession" until a legal court eviction. A landlord who illegally locks out a tenant risks being sued for damages. If your landlord has locked you out without a court order:

- 1) Call the police: You can call the police and ask for assistance. It would be helpful if you have a lease or mail or other proof you reside at the address. Depending on the police officer, he or she may be willing to try to persuade the landlord to allow you back in your home.

2) Contact your landlord: You can contact your landlord and advise him or her that he/she has illegally locked you out and that you should be allowed back in your home.

3) Contact your attorney: If these methods are unsuccessful, you should consult a private attorney. You can find an attorney in the Yellow Pages or through an attorney referral service, listed after the "Attorney" listing in the Yellow Pages. You should see whether the attorney can assist you in either getting restored to your home, obtaining your possessions and/or suing the landlord for damages.

Rent Increases: If a lease exists the rent is locked in for the term of the lease. If there is not a lease, a landlord can increase a tenant's rent by giving the following written notice: 10 days written notice before rent is due if rent is paid once a month; 3 days written notice before rent is due if rent is paid weekly or semi-monthly. Mobile Home Parks: 60 days written notice required for rent increases on space when not protected by a lease for a longer period of time.

Trespass by Landlord: The tenant has the right to peaceful enjoyment of the property, but this right can be modified by the lease. Unless the lease provides otherwise, the landlord does not have a right to enter the property without permission of the tenant except to make emergency repairs. A tenant can sue a landlord for violating the tenant's rights.

Eviction: The only way a landlord can legally evict a tenant is by going through the legal eviction process. A landlord may evict a tenant for the following 3 reasons:

1) Failure to pay rent on time. The landlord must first give the tenant a written notice* demanding that the tenant either pay the rent or move out within 3 days. If the tenant fails to pay or move, the landlord may on the 4th day commence an eviction proceeding in county court. The tenant may contest the eviction if the tenant thinks there are legal grounds by filing an answer on or before the time set by the court. If the tenant fails to answer or appear on the date indicated in the eviction papers, the tenant will then have 48 hours to vacate or be forcibly removed by the sheriff's department.

2) Breaking any terms of the lease. If the tenant breaks any of the written or oral terms (remember, oral terms are hard to prove in court) of the lease, the tenant may be evicted in much of the same manner as nonpayment of rent. In such cases, the landlord must give the tenant written notice of the lease violation and 3 days to remedy the situation or move. If the tenant fails to comply or move, the landlord on the 4th day may commence eviction proceedings in county court.

3) No reason. If the landlord wants to evict a tenant at the end of the lease period, the landlord can do so without giving a reason, but the landlord must give the tenant proper notice to leave. Notice to vacate must be served upon the tenant in a specified number of days before the end of the rental period. The length of the lease period is determined within the lease. If the lease does not state the rental term or a written lease does not exist, the rental period is determined by the frequency of rental payments. For example, if the rent is due each month, it is a month-to-month tenancy or lease. Notice to vacate requirements for rental lease periods are as follows:

1 year or longer – 3 months,

6 months to 1 year – 1 month,

1 month to 6 months – 10 days,

1 week to 1 month – 3 days, and

Less than 1 week – 1 day.

If the tenant fails to leave, the landlord, again, must follow the procedures set forth above.

DO COLORADO RIGHT

We've created the Care for Colorado Leave No Trace Principles to make it easy for you to do simple things that have big impacts on our rippling rivers and streams, evergreen-carpeted mountains and swaying grasslands. Keep these tips in mind as you travel through our natural places, and you'll be a part of the special group helping future visitors experience our beautiful state to its fullest, all while you make the most of your Colorado adventures.

Rio Grande Trail near Glenwood Springs

Know Before You Go

- Almost half of Colorado is public land. Learn about the area you plan to visit before adventuring out so you can enjoy and help protect the spaces we all share.
- Colorado's weather and scenic terrain are stunning but can change drastically. Check conditions before you depart, pack layers, sun protection and rain gear, wear appropriate footwear ... and enjoy your trip.
- Journey to places with minimal crowds to maximize your connection with the great outdoors. Have a backup plan in case the parking lot at your original destination is full.
- Pack reusable water bottles to stay hydrated, limit waste and save money.

Stick to Trails

- Embrace the adventure as intended by only walking on designated trails — even if it's wet, muddy, slushy or icy. This will help avoid erosion and protect the homes of local wildlife.
- Shortcuts and that perfect selfie can be tempting, but staying on the path will decrease your risk of injury and protect trailside plants.
- Camping? Set up in one of thousands of designated campsites in Colorado. They boast some of the most scenic views and protect the landscapes. And remember to camp at least 200 feet from waterways to leave space for wildlife.

Leave It As You Find It

- Enjoy discovering plants? Rocks? Historical and cultural items? Be sure to leave them as you found them so everyone can experience the joy of discovery.
- Colorado has more than 2,000 different species of wildflowers, all with their own unique part to play in our ecosystem. Admire their beauty by taking a photo, not a flower.
- Cleaning boots, bike tires and water crafts before and after every outing not only makes your gear last longer, it prevents the spread of harmful invasive species.
- Colorado's trees give us beautiful leaf-peeping photos, shade on summer days, unmatched ski runs and, of course, oxygen (which at this altitude, is a big help). But the smallest carving can kill or disfigure them.

Trash the Trash

- Pack in the beautiful views by packing out the trash and leaving a place better than you found it. And make sure not to forget the peels and cores. Just because it's good for you, doesn't mean it's good for the wildlife.
- No bathroom around? No worries. Be prepared with a disposable WAG bag (found in most outdoor stores), and conveniently pack out your waste. Some locations may allow you to bury your business: Find privacy 70 steps from water and the trail, dig a 6- to 8-inch hole and then bury your business. Check the website of your destination to be sure you're following their guidelines.

Be Careful With Fire

- Build the perfect Colorado campfire (and avoid sparking a wildfire) by first making sure campfires are allowed in the area. Then, keep them small, manageable and attended. When it's time to extinguish, make sure the embers are cold to the touch to avoid reigniting a flame.
- Buy or gather firewood locally; it'll save you space in your car, plus it prevents the introduction of any invasive species like the destructive pine beetle.
- Use care when smoking anything (and we do mean anything) in Colorado's dry climate. One of the biggest causes of fires is discarded butts.

Keep Wildlife Wild

- Colorado is home to tens of thousands of furry, scaly and feathered creatures. To keep them — and you — safe, make sure to keep your (and your dog's) distance. And if you're ever unsure, follow the rule of thumb: If you can cover the entire animal with your thumb, you're at a safe distance.
- Everyone loves the smell of bacon (not just humans). So always store food, trash and anything with a scent in bear-proof lockers, canisters or secured vehicles. This will protect you and prevent wildlife from being exposed to behavior changes, predators or even euthanasia.

Share Our Trails & Parks

- Everyone experiences and enjoys the outdoors in different ways. Be mindful of your group's noise level so everyone can appreciate our shared spaces.
- Yield to the uphill hiker and biker — they need the momentum. Wheelchair users and equestrians always have the right of way.

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

Rivers are powerful and always changing, so be sure to check water levels before getting wet. Remember to wear a personal flotation device — even when SUPing. And for smooth sailing, hire a guide.

1 Soak Up Our Water

Each spring, our renowned winter snow transforms into fresh, cool water that fills our rivers and lakes. It happens just in time for you to set up your umbrella on a sandy beach at our more than 2,000 lakes, book a whitewater-rafting trip with an experienced guide, plot which inlets and currents you'll drift into on your stand-up paddleboard, or choose a hike where the refreshing mist of a waterfall revives you with a mid-trek cool down.

Thirty steamy, mineral-rich hot springs bubble up to welcome you in any season. Options range from luxurious resorts where elegant cabins and holistically centered spas sit steps from the water to family-focused fun with slides and diving boards to backcountry locales that require hiking a few miles to reach.

And when things are frosty above ground, give our frozen water a whirl atop a pair of ice skates. From rinks with sun-soaked winter skies to city and resort locales surrounded by busy shops and restaurants, this pastime serves up back-to-basics winter joy.

3 Explore Our Parks & Monuments

Colorado's natural assets awaken the imagination and stir the senses. Come to life walking a trail to the twinkling tune of aspen leaves, wrangling a feisty rainbow trout, crunching over pine needles while twisting along on a mountain bike, sitting beside a babbling creek for a picnic, or witnessing the wonder of bighorn sheep moving from one rocky ledge to another.

Our four national parks, nine national monuments and 43 state parks have preserved special moments like these — and millions of others — for visitors to carry with them for a lifetime.

4 Discover Your Favorite Mountain Town

Colorado's small towns cultivate big memories with their charming Main Streets, dining and shopping, and easy access to outdoor encounters. Pick up a trail right in town to hear the crunch of your snowshoes upon freshly fallen snow. Snuggle up in a horse-drawn sleigh as it jingles along to a hot-chocolate pit stop. Or sit back while a chairlift whisks you to North America's best skiing and boarding.

When our mild summer and fall weather dawns, those same snowshoe and ski trails open to birders, hikers and mountain bikers, and those same chairlifts ferry you over fields of candy-colored wildflowers and rock faces set aglow with fall's reds, oranges and yellows.

Live Our Western Heritage

In order to honor Colorado's true roots, we remember the land's original inhabitants. Dozens of archaeological sites, museums, byways and roadside plaques dedicated to our Indigenous peoples will have your imagination floating back in time to the first and most fascinating human experiences in Colorado.

Mining towns and tours tell the stories of early explorers, fur trappers and prospectors who came in search of treasure after hearing tales of rivers overflowing with gold rocks free for the taking. The Colorado Gold Rush was on, with covered wagons crossing the Great Plains to cries of "Pikes Peak or Bust!" Today, you can visit many of these historical towns and ride our rails to see remnants of this gold- and silver-dusted past.

Nothing embodies the Wild West of our imagination like a dude ranch. There's something special about their down-home hospitality — by the end of your stay, you'll really feel like family. These all-inclusive retreats offer the excitement of rustic ranch life and lots of opportunities to relax with family and friends. Whether you're looking to live out your on-screen dreams of being a tough-skinned ranch hand or simply wanting a taste of life outside of the city, more than 30 dude ranches supply an incredible getaway.

Find Your Sense of Adventure

Adventure in Colorado doesn't have to mean barreling down a dizzying singletrack trail on two wheels or dodging moguls on a black-diamond ski slope — though it certainly can mean those things! There's adventure to be had atop an e-bike, where you can travel more miles and see more sights while the bike does most of the work. Cover even more ground by ziplining over a rushing river, hopping in a hot-air balloon at dawn to see the sunrise or buckling onto steel cables to traverse a mountainside from great heights on a via ferrata. If you yearn to explore our outdoors but are hesitant to wander the wide blue yonder on your own, adventure guides can show you the way. These pros set you up with all the gear you need, share their expertise, and guide you safely and easily to the best spots for backpacking, fishing, climbing, hunting, OHVing, kayaking, hut tripping, backcountry skiing and more.

7 Eat & Drink Local

Rich in homegrown ingredients, diverse cuisines, an influx of internationally recognized chefs and a strong maker culture, it's no wonder Colorado menus are bursting with creativity and fresh flavors — and there are so many ways to taste them.

Going beyond farm-to-table, many Colorado chefs bring the table to the farm with hyper-seasonal dinners crafted from ingredients grown just a few steps from where you sit. If you can't make it to the farm, do the next-best thing and hit one or more of our roughly 100 farmers' markets, where you'll find only-in-Colorado produce varieties to fill your basket.

Those markets are where you're likely to find many chefs gathering ingredients for that day's menu. Taste the exquisitely prepared bounty at restaurants across the state and keep an eye out for those rated by the iconic MICHELIN Guide. The organization announced its expansion into the state in 2023, citing restaurant teams' commitment to using a wide range of high-quality ingredients sourced locally and sustainably.

Our world-class craft-beer scene can probably trace its roots to the same wealth of local fruit, veggies and grains that brought these amazing chefs to our altitude. One arm of an expansive Colorado Liquid Arts™ scene, more than 400 breweries join 250-plus wineries, distilleries, cideries and meaderies. A growing number of these makers partner with farmers to turn our native crops into liquid gold you can taste on site or at local restaurants.

8 Take a Scenic Ride

Our 26 scenic byways connect the dots between historic sites and acres of majestic scenery that span red-rock canyons, Rocky Mountain peaks and sun-kissed prairies. The byways are truly a collection of must-see vistas. Picking a couple — and coming back for more later — will ensure you understand the true meaning of Colorful Colorado.

Rent or bring your own electric vehicle and head out on one of our 14 certified Electric Byways, each with charging stations spaced out just right for seeing the sights.

Or consider our scenic and historical railroads, which have held travelers' fascination since the 1800s. From multiday journeys to day trips with five-star dining experiences or seasonal encounters with Santa, you'll carve through jagged gorges and find yourself hugging steep cliffs on narrow-gauge tracks or traversing the banks of crystal-blue rivers.

Come winter, the mountains open to snowmobilers gliding across trails and fields of powder in the crisp, dry air. Find yourself on a meandering, family-friendly jaunt or opt for a high-speed odyssey over endless snowy hills.

Experience Our Unique Arts & Culture

Surrounded by natural beauty, it's hard to imagine NOT being inspired to create something here. In fact, 30 communities brimming with galleries, artists in residence and special arts events have been designated Certified Colorado Creative Districts. You can find each locale's distinct creative flair through art walks, sculpture tours, concerts, street art, cultural festivals and more.

Much of our artistic credibility can also be traced to acclaimed art collections, many of which are found in architectural marvels and amid scenery that are destinations in their own rights. Whether you browse artistic attractions in our big cities or stumble into a hidden small-town nook of a gallery, you'll be sure to find something crafted with a Colorado perspective.

That Colorado point of view can also be found in our collection of historical theaters and opera houses, which have been serving up beautiful performances to Coloradans since the 1800s — and you can feel the history when you take in a show amid their gilded columns and chandeliers today. But there's much more: Colorado also boasts the second-largest performing-arts complex in the country and several world-class theater companies, so there's always something spectacular on stage while you're in town.

State Parks, Four Seasons of Fun

Lake Pueblo

Wherever you go in Colorado, there's a state park waiting to welcome you. Mountains or prairies, rivers or forests, out in the country or next to the city. Colorado's 42 state parks (soon to be 43) are as diverse as the state itself, and they offer something for everyone.

Motorized wheelchairs are offered in three parks.

Experience Colorado

Take a hair-raising whitewater river trip, or kick back in a lawn chair and watch the sunset. Enjoy a family picnic, cast a line in the water, take a hike, ride a horse, try snowshoeing or discover geocaching. From Eastern Plains parks at 3,800 feet to high-mountain parks at 9,500, the network of state parks offers a wealth of activities for busy people of all ages, or the chance to do nothing at all. In winter, spring, summer or fall, more than 4,000 campsites, cabins and yurts are available under star-filled skies. Reservations are required and can be made at CPWshop.com six months in advance.

Enjoy Our Wildlife

Near Steamboat Springs

Few places in North America offer the bounty of wildlife-watching opportunities available in Colorado. Our mountains, forests, plains, rivers and mesas harbor 960 different species, luring binocular-toting guests into our natural spaces.

Ensure at least a couple of them are part of your stay by following the birding trails — there are 54 of them! — known to harbor that elusive songbird or raptor you’ve been seeking. With nearly 400 different species of birds migrating through the state, there’s a winged creature to be spotted in every season. Another option is attending a wildlife festival with friends similarly in awe of an elk, moose or bighorn sheep to hear their bugles and see them prance and strut for their mates.

Or spend a day casting your line: Fly-fishers, ice-fishers and pure rod-and-reelers will find plenty of options along 8,000 miles of rivers and more than 2,000 lakes. Those seeking a bigger catch will find it in our quiet spaces: 23 million acres of pretty pines, plentiful pocket meadows and pure-water ponds host excellent opportunities for hunting, fishing or simply viewing majestic animals in motion.

Discover Your Perfect Vail Getaway

With astonishing alpine beauty and bucket list-worthy adventure, Vail's a dream — like no place on earth. From strolling a Bavarian village to exploring vast wilderness via foot, bike or skis, you'll find your special moment. Zoom on a mountain coaster, attend a signature event, shop local and dine out. Make forever memories in Vail.

Top Vail Activities

Many come to Vail to ski, but activities go far beyond that. Relax at a spa, meander the pedestrian-friendly village and shop unique boutiques. In summer and fall, ride the scenic gondola for startling panoramas and mountaintop fun at Epic Discovery.

A Foodie's Dream

Try MICHELIN-recommended restaurants, Sweet Basil and Osaki's, for memorable menus spanning global-fusion and Japanese flavors. Nom on brunch fare like Vintage's bacon-topped avocado toast. Taste Bavarian delicacies in a private gondola car with Alpenrose.

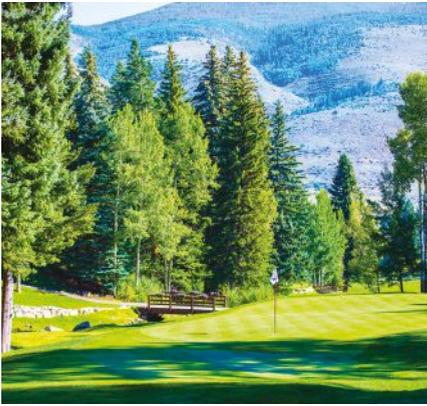

Unique Events

Plan your stay around a classic Vail event, no matter the season. Come in winter for Revelry Vail, Vail Holidays, Winterfest, Après at the Amp or summer for GoPro Mountain Games, Vail Farmers' Market & Art Show, Vail Dance Festival and Bravo! Vail Music Festival.

Family-Friendly Fun

Make Vail your playground with all-ages activities and dining options even your pickiest eater will love. Ice skate, take an easy-rated hike or snowshoe, helmet up for biking on a paved path — or get a babysitter for well-earned adult time.

EXPLORE COLORADO IN Every Season

Each season unveils its own adventures in Colorado. From carving down powdery slopes and basking in rays on warm wildflower hikes to brilliant colors on autumn aspens and the splash of whitewater rapids, you'll never find yourself wondering what to do next.

The Springs Resort in Pagosa Springs

Winter

Skiers aren't the only people who yearn for a Colorado winter vacation. Bright, sunny days with lots of light, deep and fluffy snow set our state apart as a premier winter destination. Whether it's a night spent sipping cocoa in a horse-drawn sleigh that jingles through the trees, a day racing down tubing hills with family or a peaceful Nordic adventure in the backcountry where you can hear birds calling to each other, you're sure to find magical moments when the snowflakes start falling.

Snowshoeing

Strap on some snowshoes and hit the trails for some crystal-covered alpine scenery. Set off two hours south of Denver to Mueller State Park in Divide, where you can find both beginner paths and advanced summits. Or shoot west to Mesa's Powderhorn Mountain Resort to pick up some rentals and pad through the surrounding nature paths. In Leadville, plan a trek to Tennessee Pass Cookhouse. Reserve dinner at this glowing backcountry yurt that serves up mouthwatering meals throughout the season — you just have to traverse an easy trail to get there.

Hot Springs

There are few things as fun as donning a bathing suit and a winter hat, dashing outside and stepping into a steamy hot spring. Take a dip at Hot Sulphur Springs Resort & Spa, where in winter, snowflakes peacefully fall around you from one of their 18 warm pools flowing from seven different underground springs. Enjoy a luxurious day at Durango Hot Springs Resort + Spa, where you can grab a glass of wine and soak in a mineral-rich bath while also soaking up views of the San Juan Mountains. Or watch cold water rush by in a stream from your toasty retreat just steps away at Mount Princeton Hot Springs Resort.

Rocky Mountain National Park

Ice Skating

Glide into Skate in the Park at Acacia Park in downtown Colorado Springs, where you can capture the perfect holiday-card photo amid twinkling lights and festive decorations. Or tighten up your skates, throw on a scarf and head to Evergreen Lake. When frozen over, it becomes a clean sheet of ice, ideal for perfecting your crossovers in a winter scene easily mistaken for the North Pole. Keystone Resort also has a dedicated skating rink, so you can hop off the slopes and spend the evening carving the ice with the picture-perfect pinnacle backdrop.

Sleigh Rides

Winter brings lovely weather for a sleigh ride together. Don't miss 2 Below Zero sleigh rides in Frisco. Here, evening visitors are drawn up to a lantern-lit heated tent in the backcountry, where you can feast on a hearty three-course meal and an acoustic performance. Or dash through the snow in Aspen, all the way to Pine Creek Cookhouse, where cowpokes guide you through a wonderland of snowcapped alps and frosty stands of aspens. Choose romance with Golden Horseshoe, where you and your special someone are whisked through the enchanting forests of Breckenridge while you snuggle up under blankets and enjoy marshmallowy hot cocoas.

Snow Tubing

Hop into a tube and hold on tight at Colorado Adventure Park in Fraser to spend the day flying down the pillowy lift-served runs, each tailored to a different speed. Then sit by their fire pits to roast some gooey s'mores. In Steamboat Springs, travel to Tube Howelson, the hometown ski hill that hosts the town's annual Winter Carnival, complete with ring-of-fire jumps, ski dancing and a spectacular fireworks display. Looking for an evening activity? Try night tubing at Echo Mountain in Idaho Springs, where you can listen to music and slide under the stars. This electrifying winter activity is easy to pick up and ideal for all ages.

Do Denver Your Way

There's no right or wrong way to experience The Mile High City. There's only...your way. Come discover unique neighborhoods, award-winning cuisine, craft breweries, performing arts, museums, art galleries, and so much more.

1 Find Inspiration

Denver's thriving arts and culture scene is an energizing experience for anyone in search of inspiration. Find a new perspective at Denver Art Museum's global collection, featuring more than 70,000 works of art in 12 galleries. Expand your mind at Meow Wolf Convergence Station, where visitors are transported to another dimension through immersive, psychedelic creations. Or take a look at the colorful murals bringing new life to alleyways and buildings in the River North Art District.

3 Eat & Drink

Elevate your tastebuds and find flavor throughout The Mile High City at any of Denver's 26 MICHELIN-rated restaurants, known for serving creative, locally sourced cuisine. And, if you can't decide where to dine, head to one of the city's many food halls or markets, like Avanti F&B or Denver Central Market.

4 Get Outside

The spirit of Colorado infuses everything in Denver, from outdoor dining to concerts under the stars. Red Rocks Park & Amphitheatre hosts its world-famous summer concert series April-October every year. Get to the show early to take advantage of the hiking trails that meander through the majestic sandstone monoliths.

2 Gather the Family

Bring the whole family on your Denver adventure! The City Park neighborhood features both the Denver Zoo and the Denver Museum of Nature & Science, while Elych Gardens Theme & Water Park, the Downtown Aquarium and the Children's Museum of Denver at Marsico Campus offer all-ages fun in the heart of downtown.

WHERE LUXURY MEETS BREATHTAKING

Discover the ultimate in Colorado vacationing at Cheyenne Mountain Resort. Let the majestic Rocky Mountains be your backdrop, and your muse, for unforgettable moments.

ENJOY ENDLESS AMENITIES

Including our Signature Pete Dye 18-hole golf course, Alluvia Spa & Wellness Retreat, state of the art fitness center, multiple swimming pools/tennis courts, and so much more!

Boulder Farmers Market

Spring

When spring comes around in the Rockies, you don't have to choose one type of vacation: Sneak in a late-season ski session in the morning and then go for a hike in the dry deserts or tee off at a golf course in town.

Urban Escapes

Denver is easily one of the biggest culture hubs in the region. Dive into the art districts and roam through Meow Wolf and the Denver Art Museum, or just head to Santa Fe Drive to pop into block after block of galleries. Along the way, watch for street art around many corners. Once you're done taking in the local craft, take a bite out of the food scene with endless options of cross-cultural cuisines, epic dining experiences from famous and soon-to-be famous chefs, and seasonally inspired faves. On sunny days, hike up to a rooftop bar for an afternoon cocktail with a Front Range view.

Bound over to Boulder's Pearl Street to snag a creamy pistachio cone at Gelato Boy and spend the day weaving through boutiques, outdoor stores and artisanal shops. Immerse yourself in the vibrant atmosphere and uncover unique treasures as you stroll along the streets with the unmistakable backdrop of the sharp Flatirons. Spend a Saturday morning at their famous farmers' market to pick up some juicy citrus, sample artisanal breads and pastries, and peruse handcrafted jewelry and goods.

Hop on your bike and soak up the pure fun of downtown Fort Collins. Craft-beer connoisseurs will be in heaven with tastings at some of the popular brewery tours in the region. Dismount by New Belgium and Odell to learn their secrets to making the perfect pints — and maybe sample a couple while you're there! Then, grab a burger downtown and listen to some live music on a patio with friends. Old Town is famous for inspiring Disneyland's Main Street, U.S.A. — so it naturally feels right out of a fairytale.

Welcome the first flowers of the season in Grand Junction. Stop by Belli Fiori Lavender Farm to walk through billowy purple fields and buy some fragrant bunches. Plan your next big mountain-biking trip around Grand Junction's Downtown Restaurant Week, where you can try tasting menus at some of the best eateries in the region. Before you leave, be sure to explore the hidden gem of Colorado National Monument, just a short drive away, to witness the striking rock formations and craggy, crimson canyons.

Desert Getaways

Cruise southwest to Mesa Verde National Park to take a relaxed drive on the Trail of the Ancients scenic and historic byway, stopping off to view Ancestral Puebloan cliff dwellings. Traverse sandy trails surrounded by high-desert wildlife like weasels, rabbits and scaly lizards. Advanced hikers can take in the natural wonder of Rattlesnake Canyon — the second highest concentration of arches in the United States — where you can hike or 4x4 through vaults of colorful layered sandstone. Over on the eastern plains, you'll spot remains of Apatosaurus and Allosaurus at the Picketwire Canyonlands, a paleontological area south of La Junta with ancient dinosaur tracks big enough for you to sit in.

WHAT TO PACK

You might notice that we love our activewear. And there's a reason for that — weather conditions can change quickly, and we like to be prepared for whatever nature throws our way — like an afternoon thunderstorm that rolls in on a sunny day. From packing layers and comfy shoes to homegrown styles, check Colorado.com/WhatToWear for packing tips.

HIDDEN TREASURES

Make treasured memories with a trip to historic Golden, Colorado.

You can explore the outdoors, including some of the most pristine hiking and mountain biking in the Rocky Mountain region. Or take in the culture, with museums and public art that will transport you back in time. Top off your visit with fine dining, the Coors brewery tour, or a pub crawl through our nine craft breweries.

Royal Gorge Rafting, Ziplining & Accommodations

Stay in Cañon City for whitewater rafting on the Arkansas River, traversing tightrope courses and zipping through Royal Gorge region scenery.

Lounge, grill and take in mountain views by your riverside yurt or airstream.

Royal Gorge Rafting

This whitewater-rafting outfitter has fun for the whole family, like cruising through Bighorn Sheep Canyon on the beginner trip, or challenging yourself on the Class V rapids of the Royal Gorge Rafting course. With choices of half- or full-day trips, these excursions provide scenic Colorado vistas, cool Arkansas River splashes and memories to last a lifetime.

Royal Gorge Ziplining

Feel the wind on your face as you glide between hills and above the rushing water of the Arkansas. The nine-line Classic Zip course will help you learn and feel confident with the basics before you embark on the more intense 11-line Extreme Zip. Or clip into an automatic belay device and freefall from the thrilling, 70-foot Dare Drop.

Royal Gorge Vacation Rentals

Cañon City teems with exciting activities, sweeping views of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains and Wild West charm, and Royal Gorge Vacation Rentals has the best way to enjoy it all. Riverside yurts, ranch-style cabins and vintage airstreams provide more than just a place to rest your head — they're also close to whitewater rafting, ziplining, and local fare like the Whitewater Bar & Grill. Reserve a hillside cottage for a large family party, roast marshmallows for two in the outdoor fire pit beside your luxury airstream, or listen to crickets chirp as you rest in a cozy cabin.

The EDGE Zipline

Fly across the Front Range near Denver to survey inspiring views of Castle Rock's greenery, distant mountains and rolling hills on an adrenaline-pumping zipline journey. Lace up those hiking boots for the trek to the top of the line before strapping into safety equipment and soaring through the sky. With 10 exhilarating rides spanning 2 miles more than 100 feet in the air, The EDGE will give any thrill-seeker the chance to experience speeds up to 50 miles per hour. Visit the lines during the fall to whiz over golden, red and orange leaves of the turning season.

The EDGE Zipline — Sky Trek, Adventure Tower & Ninja Course

With invigorating courses that meet any skill level, The EDGE's elevated obstacles and vertical climbs are thrilling escapades. If swinging from monkey bars and crossing tightropes while harnessed is your idea of fun, Sky Trek is the challenge for you. Want to test your limit for heights? Climb the Adventure Tower, a 50-foot-tall wall with steps and ladders that you can climb or rappel up and freefall back down. Finally, tie your sneakers tight to unleash energy on the Ninja Course, a strength- and endurance-testing obstacle course that'll take you to the threshold of your jumping, scaling and running abilities.

Summer

Our warm days and cool nights create the ideal conditions to enjoy summer to the fullest. Jam out at festivals at nature-made venues, get wet on a raft while splashing down whitewater rapids or settle into a seat for an evening sipping local beers and wines.

BE CAREFUL WITH FIRE

Colorado's spring, summer and fall are typically warm and dry, making fire danger something to keep an eye out for. You can help by staying up to date with campfire and firework restrictions in the areas you're visiting, and building and managing low-impact campfires. Colorado.com/WildfirePrevention

Crested Butte

Music Festivals

Music festivals are the best way to see some of your favorite acts — but in Colorado they come complete with panoramic views. Enjoy a riff at JAS Labor Day Experience at Aspen Snowmass, where bands across genres provide the soundtrack to a panorama of jagged peaks. Step into the Strings Music Festival in Steamboat Springs for high-caliber orchestral music in the high mountains and an intimate setting. Or ramble on into classical, jazz, blues and bluegrass performances at the Crested Butte Music Festival in the sweet shadow of Mount Gothic. Be sure to pack water and sunscreen to safely bask in the tunes on warm, sunny days.

Wildflowers

See a mosaic of blooms during summer's peak wildflower season. Sprawling fields of bright yellows, purples and pinks will welcome you for a sunset hike in Crested Butte, the Wildflower Capital of Colorado. The Rabbit Valley Recreation Area in Grand Junction is another spot to get your fix of Indian paintbrush, columbines and goldenrods, with several routes that will take your breath away. Or gaze at florals across the color spectrum at Lory State Park near Fort Collins while bounding through miles of lakeside trails.

Arkansas River

Whitewater Rafting

Splash down one of the many rivers that run through Colorado and experience the thrill of whitewater rafting. Boaters steer to the Arkansas River to launch in Cañon City and Buena Vista, where there's a portion of the river fit for every paddler's speed and capability. Only a stone's throw from Denver, Clear Creek's rapids run through historic mining towns and offer beginner and advanced runs. And for those sailing south, the Animas River in Durango is a great option to spend a day on the water — you may even paddle alongside the narrow-gauge train as it chugs its way into the canyon. Get in touch with local guides to learn the ropes and ensure a safe adventure for beginners.

Winery Tours

Sip award-winning wines and breeze through the rows of speckled grapevines at Grande River Vineyards in Palisade. Or make your way to Stone Cottage Cellars in Paonia to try some true mountain-inspired blends alongside spectacular peak views. Spend Friday at Fox Fire Farms in Ignacio, when they host local bands so you can savor a fruity glass with a side of folk, rock, blues and beyond. Tour the grounds and get to know the Colorado families who turned their love of wine into a shared experience for visitors and locals alike.

THE LEAD

Experience a place where vibrant music, farm-fresh cuisine and a lively art scene converge with countless outdoor adventures. Where alpine terrain meets dramatic high desert and powerful rivers course through verdant valleys. Where you can indulge your senses, follow your passions and go wherever they may lead.

Kenosha Pass near Grant

Fall

Admire the gorgeous golden hues of transforming aspens and breathe in the crisp, cool air of autumn. Search through spooky ghost towns, drive along a tree-lined scenic byway or hit a seasonal festival to embrace the beauty of a Colorado fall.

Scenic Drives

Load everyone in the car and discover golden pathways throughout the Rocky Mountains. Steer to West Elk Loop where you circle Paonia, Delta and Cedaredge, hopping out along the way to embark on small hikes, picnic and savor the season’s cool breeze coming off alpine rivers and reservoirs. Take a trip to Kenosha Pass through Conifer and Fairplay, pausing to explore Segment 6 of the Colorado Trail and later encounter the Mosquito Range peaks beyond the high grassland basin of South Park — the area that inspired the animated series. Or take an unforgettable journey down the Highway of Legends right through La Veta and Trinidad to behold magnificent volcanic formations in a region rich with Wild West history.

Festivals

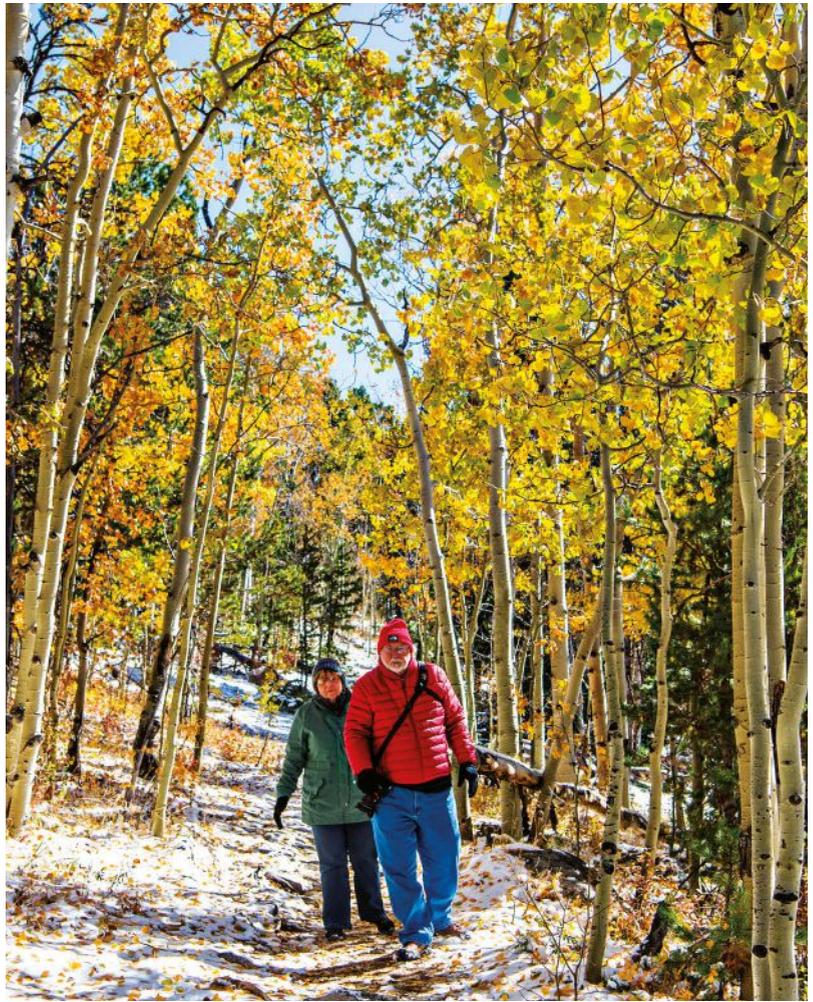

Find cultural cornerstones at a wide array of fall festivals. Spice things up at the Pueblo Chile & Frijoles Festival to shop at street vendors for Southwestern crafts, witness cooking competitions and eat plenty of the city’s signature roasted pepper. The Autumn Gold Festival in Estes Park drops you in a treasure chest of gleaming poplars, with plenty of beers, brats and bands to keep you busy all day long. Meanwhile, the Fruita Fall Festival features loads of handcrafted artwork and goods, as well as live music to support local makers during the most colorful time of year.

Ghost Towns

The Wild West history pulsing through our mountain towns makes peeking into their pasts especially fun during spooky season. For an eerie alternative to a museum exhibit, peer into a ghost town. Teller City, near Walden, is a solid place to start. Step back in time 150 years when this silver-mining town was home to more than 1,500 people, 27 saloons and a massive hotel. Now, you can hike in to spot the remaining cabin structures to imagine the lives of those who called it home. Hear the wind whistle through Animas Forks near Silverton as you walk down the abandoned main street, stepping into cabins, a remaining mill and the old jail. Or head to Ashcroft, an abandoned mining town near Aspen, where the old saloon, post office and other small buildings still stand.

Hiking

Hiking is one of the most beloved activities in Colorado, and is one of the easiest to get into. While thousands of gorgeous treks can be found in our foothills and high peaks, here are some options that really sing in the fall. The Golden Gate Canyon State Park Raccoon Trail near Rollinsville opens to panoramic summit views topped with white crowns and plenty of chromatic trees. Or uncover the Lost Lake Trail near Nederland, which winds you through shaking stands of aspens, all the way to a tranquil lake — the perfect place for a midday meal. For a challenging route, the Savage Lakes Trail near Basalt will satisfy anyone looking for some golden outlooks.

MEET THE Ski Collection

When the snow starts falling, there's no place better than Colorado's Rocky Mountains to kick off the ski season. We have the most ski-resort options in North America (28 in total!), one of the longest ski seasons in the world and some of the most diverse terrain to tantalize skiers of all stripes. So strap on your boots, tighten your goggles and slide into these extraordinary resorts throughout the state.

The ski areas and resorts listed in this section have adaptive adventures for visitors of all abilities. Check their individual sites to find the one that best suits you — program offerings range from adaptive ski equipment, guides for people with visual impairments, experiences for people on the autistic spectrum and more.

Aspen

Aspen Snowmass' light-and-dry powder makes for a legendary downhill experience. This area is a snow globe of picture-perfect frosted mountains, complete with four resorts that cater to all skill levels and offer tons of seasonal ski events. Whether you're here for the technical terrain of Highlands, the infinite options in Snowmass, the expert-level trails throughout Aspen Mountain or the more subtle descents at Buttermilk, these four mountains give you lots of options in very close proximity. Once you're done for the day, treat yourself to some tunes at the renowned Belly Up Aspen, an intimate concert venue that features big-name artists year-round.

Wolf Creek

Wolf Creek is a little San Juan Mountain jewel best known for getting the most snow of any resort in Colorado — an astounding annual average of 430 inches. If you like floating on powder, this is your destination. The Wolf Pups Program is an ideal way to ensure your kids become lifelong powder lovers, and the mountain is a manageable size for families who want to go their own way and then come back together with ease. When the day is done, head either way over Wolf Creek Pass to Pagosa Springs for hot springs, sleigh rides and snowshoeing, or to South Fork for top-notch snowmobiling and ice fishing.

Vail

Winter-sports lovers travel from around the world to experience Vail's peak ski conditions. Featuring more than 5,200 acres of terrain, this is the place to carve the perfect winter getaway. Choose your own adventure on 195 unique runs catered to all skill levels and drop right into one of their seven acclaimed back bowls to glide on wide-open terrain with unmatched vertical. Then, close out the day by heading into Vail Village to grab a hot cocoa and walk through the storybook, Bavarian-style hamlet where some of the state's best après-ski restaurants and nightlife await.

Breckenridge

Breckenridge truly has something for everyone: long groomed trails, monster mogul runs, steep chutes, glades and plenty of family-friendly beginner areas. Featuring five peaks and 187 trails, you can spend days on the mountains and only scratch the surface. The resort was one of the first to welcome snowboarders on the slopes and their Freeway Terrain Park is arguably one of the best in North America. Once you finish out your day, wander into the historical downtown to munch on cheesy slices at local pizza joints. Then, stop into the town's bars and breweries to drink world-famous beers, chat and dance.

Ski Cooper

The former training site of the 10th Mountain Division, the legendary World War II ski troops, Ski Cooper's role in our nation's history is one of a kind. Its sweeping runs follow some of the same paths used by the soldiers who skied Europe's mountain battlefields — one of the reasons the state's newest monument was recently established there as the Camp-Hale Continental Divide National Monument. Today, it's popular with families looking for a cheerful and low-stress skiing holiday and snowshoers headed to its Tennessee Pass Cookhouse, a yurt serving delicious Colorado fare that's reached via 1-mile groomed trek.

Telluride

Nestled in a box canyon, Telluride's downtown is right at the base of their picture-perfect ski mountain. So, you can head straight to San Juan Avenue and hop on a quick gondola ride. From there, zip over a soaring ridge and coast into a winter wonderland of groomed runs, challenging moguls and freestyle parks. If you want a bit of a cardio challenge with a big payoff, try their lesser-traveled hike-to terrain, which is almost always covered in a fresh blanket of snow. After a day of traversing, stop into the Victorian-era historic district where you can shop, dine and learn all about the area's silver-mining past, or stay on the mountain to dine at the ski-in Alpino Vino, one of the highest elevation restaurants in North America, and enjoy the unmatched views.

Winter Park

Loveland

Loveland Ski Area averages more annual snowfall than any other Front Range ski spot — more than 400 inches! That means you're likely to find untracked snow even days after a storm. Two separate base areas make up the resort: Loveland Valley caters to beginners with wide-open terrain and gentle slopes, while Loveland Basin challenges intermediate to advanced skiers and riders with runs steep and deep. Because of its high-altitude location, Loveland is always one of the first ski areas in the nation to open and one of the last to close each year. Have a soft spot for the backcountry? Climb aboard a snowcat tour, where guides navigate intermediate to expert skiers and snowboarders to some of the best hidden-gem locations in Dry Gulch.

Winter Park

Award-winning and wide-ranging terrain is one of the major reasons Winter Park is beloved by locals. Families flock to the Winter Park side, with tons of approachable greens and blues — and an entire section dedicated to education for all ages. Meanwhile, the Mary Jane side attracts ski and snowboard fanatics, and is known for its expert-level, mogul-heavy terrain and exhilarating tree runs. When you're ready to kick back for your après, the town has tons of cozy bars and restaurants where you can rest and refuel. One of the resort's best conveniences is the Winter Park Express, an Amtrak route that runs from Denver's Union Station directly to the Winter Park base area, so you can squeeze in a few extra runs with all the time you've saved getting there.

Eldora

Eldora's proximity to Boulder and Denver is one of the reasons it's known as a "locals' mountain." The fact that they have terrain to keep the whole family busy all day doesn't hurt either. The Eldora Nordic Center features a network of nearly 25 miles of peaceful cross-country-ski and snowshoe trails just steps from the downhill ski area. Woodward Eldora, part of the well-known action-sports Woodward family, uses its progression-based system to teach anyone to master new tricks and skills on snowboards or skis.

Crested Butte

With wide-open green and blue trails, expert bowls and plenty of unexplored lines and uncrowded slopes, there are countless thrilling options for all skill levels at Crested Butte Mountain Resort. For a once-in-a-lifetime educational experience, check out their Ski with an Olympian program, where you can take a lesson with Olympic freeskiing champion Wendy Fisher. Once you've put away your skis and boards, consider a more relaxing activity. Spend the evening sinking into a soothing massage at Creekside Spa, where you can remove any knots earned on a long day of shredding.

Steamboat

Famous for their Champagne Powder®, the snow at Steamboat Ski Resort is light, dry, smooth and only found in this 124-year-old Western town. With six stunning peaks and 3,000 acres of terrain, this spot has so many sprawling hills to traverse. High-proficiency skiers should head to the highest point, Mount Werner, for panoramic snowcapped mountain views that will take your breath away and deliver a next-level downhill run. For an extra tree-lined challenge, Steamboat delivers unique aspen glades. After you clock out on the trails, stop in town to grab a bite and experience the friendly, down-home roots that keep people coming back year after year.

Purgatory

Purgatory's unimposing slopes, Old West fun park, sleigh rides, mountain coaster, Pitchfork Terrain Garden beginners' park and affordable lodging are all things that make it a favorite with families. Within its boundaries are 105 trails, four terrain parks, a racing course and 35,000 acres of snowcat skiing and snowboarding. Experienced skiers and riders can make a snowcat reservation to access all that terrain — up to 10 runs — with lunch provided and backcountry instruction from highly trained guides.

Nelson Holland

HAVE THE Hike of Your Life

When Nelson Holland moved to Colorado and saw the picture-perfect beauty of the state, it was a life-altering moment for the Brooklynite. Not only was he introduced to a new, lifelong passion, he started on the path to becoming an outdoors-focused social-media influencer — and a featured guest for Colorado Tourism Office's Do Colorado Right campaign.

"Once I saw the Rocky Mountains, it unlocked a bunch of new things for me," Holland said. "There was this bison spot at Rocky Mountain Arsenal [National Wildlife Refuge] with 200 bison 15 minutes away from where I used to live in Thornton, and I started going over there because I wasn't really a nature person in the same way in New York."

That was 10 years ago, and Holland said those early visits to Rocky Mountain Arsenal kicked off a decade of outdoor discovery. Since then, he's explored Colorado's vast landscape, seeking big views and glimpses of the local wildlife — keeping Care for Colorado Leave No Trace Principles, like Keep Wildlife Wild, in mind. He's shared his adventures along the way, too, collecting a bounty of likes and followers on his Instagram and TikTok platforms, @fatblackandgettinit. There, he works to encourage others to explore the great outdoors, while elevating the importance of representation and inclusion.

"There are people like me that don't look like the traditional hiker," he said. "There are people that are plus sized that take more time. There are people that need poles. We should really be inclusive of everybody getting out there. There's a trail for everybody as long as [people are] respectful of everybody else."

KEEP WILDLIFE WILD

To help keep wildlife — and you — safe, make sure to keep your distance. And if you're ever unsure, follow the rule of thumb: If you can cover the entire animal with your thumb, with your arm stretched out in front of you, you're at a safe distance. Learn more at Colorado.com/Wildlife.

San Juan National Forest

Mount Crested Butte

For Holland, heading out for a hike — either solo or with a group — means he's seeking towering panoramas, endless wildlife and restorative moments found only in nature. It's essentially his special time to recharge and take in the tranquil landscape around him.

"It was always about seeing the views," he explained, "but then I saw woodpeckers and moose and things that I had never seen while I was taking these journeys. So, then I became a wildlife lover."

When Holland is outside, especially early in the morning when he has a trail all to himself, his favorite wildlife sightings — done from a safe distance — include elk, bison, bighorn sheep, eagles, osprey, red-wing blackbirds, Steller's jays, beavers and mountain goats. Basically everything.

"I'm a moose-aholic," he added.

Living in Colorado's Front Range doesn't limit his access to beautiful places in the state, either. A quick ride in the car from Denver lets Holland reach shady forest trails, rushing streams, alpine lakes and all of his favorite summer destinations.

NELSON HOLLAND'S Top 5 Colorado Trails

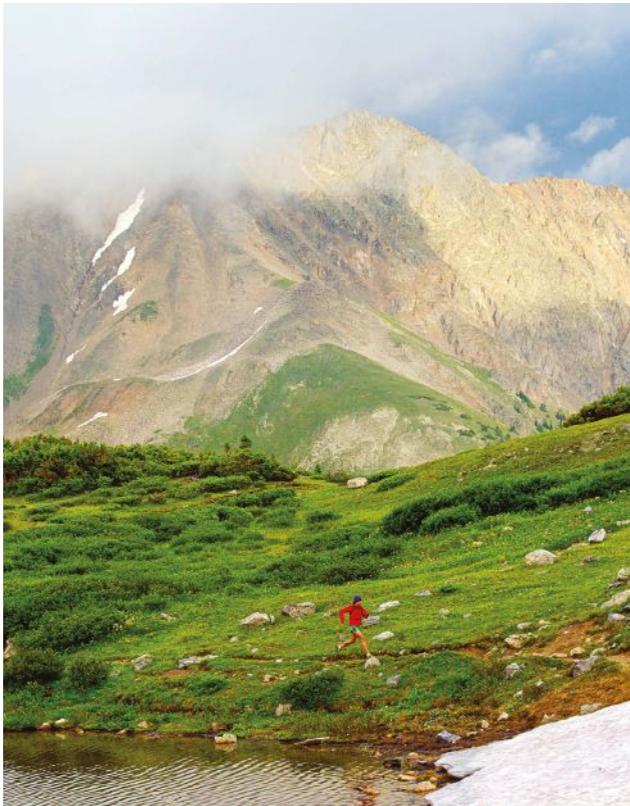

Mount Crested Butte Crested Butte

Trek up Crested Butte Mountain Resort by foot from the base area to a vast network of trails, or ride the chairlift up for a shorter hike, since you'll just be going down. No matter your method for reaching the top, you're in for startling mountain vistas swathed in green grasses and blooms — and marmot sightings, too.

"It's a great way to get up above 12,000 feet," Holland said of the summer chairlift offerings, adding that there's an element of safety for newcomers to the outdoors, who are still out there building confidence, given the trail network is part of the resort.

Mount Crested Butte

Near Loveland Pass

Mount Sniktau near Dillon

More than once, Holland mentioned this easy-to-access thirteener. The nearly 4-mile, round-trip hike can be tackled all year (yes, you can do it with snowshoes!), and even the trailhead is high up — 11,990 feet to be exact. As far as thirteeners go, it's a shorter hike to the summit with a less-intense (but still challenging) elevation gain of 1,555 feet.

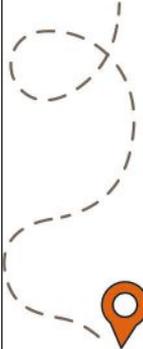

"It's just about the easiest thirteener you could do," he said. "I think I might like thirteeners more than fourteeners, not just because they're less crowded but because the backdrop is a fourteener right next to it. ... You get to the top, and I can't think of anything more beautiful."

According to him, hikers should watch for Torreys Peak while hiking Sniktau's marked trail. It's one of those neighboring fourteeners — peaks that are more than 14,000 feet — that reminds him of the Swiss Alps, especially during winter and early spring.

Bear Peak near Boulder

Bear Peak is a “butt-buster,” according to Holland. Come for toothy mountain views, wildflower-strewn meadows and rushing water sounds from Boulder Creek. Expect a bevy of wildlife-viewing opportunities, too, from curious deer to a rainbow of birds and an occasional bear, with steep switchbacks at the top. The loop clocks in at just over 8 miles.

“It’s a super beautiful hike the whole way through, but once you get to the top you have views that you probably didn’t think you could see from the Front Range,” he said. “You can see all of the Indian Peaks Wilderness and an amazing view of Longs Peak.”

HIKING ESSENTIALS

Plan ahead, stick to the trail, toss your trash, stay hydrated and more when you’re exploring along the state’s many scenic paths. Colorado.com/ColoradoHikingEssentials

Deer Mountain near Estes Park

This moderate-rated Rocky Mountain National Park trail is just over 6 miles round-trip and tops 10,000 feet. He loves it for its fluttering aspens and numerous wildlife-spotting opportunities, including some of his Colorado favorites — moose and elk.

“Estes Park might be my favorite place in the world,” he said. “On that hike specifically, you get amazing views of the Continental Divide, and it has this part — looking back in — where you can see the [town of Estes Park].”

S-Mountain Salida

Walk north of downtown Salida for a panoramic dirt road meandering up S-Mountain, also known as Tenderfoot. Head along Spiral Drive to the mountaintop to see grand views of the town or wander onto a connecting trail for a rocky challenge.

“Salida has beautiful weather year-round, so it can be sunnier there than it is in Denver; and it’s really accessible, too,” he said. “It’s 3 miles, 500 feet or so elevation gain, and the views are amazing. So, it’s a hike that everyone can do.”

Special Mention Manitou Incline Manitou Springs

Holland describes his relationship with the Manitou Incline as “love-hate” due to the challenging nature of the steep outdoor stair climb, but the scenery alone makes it worth it. He suggests getting there as early as the reservation system allows — which is 6 a.m. — for a strenuous climb up 2,744 stairs while basking in the sunrise afterglow.

If you’re planning a visit to Colorado, are new to outdoors exploration and don’t know where to start, he suggests checking out his @fatblackandgettinit accounts on Instagram and TikTok or even reaching out in a DM.

Kid-Approved

COLORADO

Colorado has more than its share of stunning natural attractions, but sometimes the kids are eager for a little more than mountain vistas and scenic drives. An afternoon at these attractions will score serious “best-parent-ever” points.

Denver Zoo

Alpine Coasters

There's nothing more thrilling than getting buckled into a modern toboggan and racing down a mountain.

With a top speed of 28 mph — the fastest on this list — Breathtaker Alpine Coaster in Snowmass adds an extra layer of fun by allowing you to ride at night. Hairpin turns and switchbacks feel even more epic under a pitch-black sky.

In Estes Park, Mustang Mountain Coaster's view from the peak includes a sapphire-sparkling lake. With tight turns around new-growth pines, you end with an epic vista of some of Colorado's famous fourteeners (mountain summits over 14,000 feet).

Copper Mountain's Rocky Mountain Coaster is home to one of the longest tracks in North America. The alpine peaks are jaw-dropping year-round, but twisting and turning through snow banks among powder-dusted trees is extra special.

Zoos

Let the children take a walk on the wild side at different sanctuaries around the state — you might even be able to hand-feed a critter.

The Denver Zoo just opened Pinnacol African Penguin Point, where you can watch the flock's underwater high jinks up close. And be sure to ride the wooden animals on Conservation Carousel and book tickets to feed cownose rays at Stingray Cove.

There might not be a more interactive experience than at the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo in Colorado Springs. Book a meet-and-feed with giraffes, elephants, rhinos, grizzly bears, zebras, river otters, orangutans, sloths, African lions and wallabies.

In Keenesburg, The Wild Animal Sanctuary's goal is to rescue and care for captive animals. To truly let the more than 650 lions, tigers and bears experience freedom with no fear, the refuge built a 1.5-mile elevated walkway for visitors. It's a calm experience for everyone involved, as the mammals don't feel threatened from above.

Amusement Parks

Coloradans live for a thrill, and that includes the state's mind-boggling rides. Where else can you look out at soaring peaks as you hurtle into the air on a giant swing?

Elitch Gardens Theme & Water Park, the nation's only downtown theme park, has everything a youngster loves, from Mega Wedgie slides to spinning teacups and Fruity Pebbles funnel cake topped with vanilla soft-serve ice cream. Bend your mind on Kaleidoscope, Meow Wolf's second permanent installation in the city, with seven Denver artists contributing to the park's ride.

Those who love to feel their heart drop into their stomach will thrive at America's only mountain-top theme park, Glenwood Caverns Adventure Park. Clutch the handles on the steepest freefall in the Western U.S. on Defiance Roller Coaster or hug the side of a bluff on Cliffhanger, North America's highest elevation, full-sized roller coaster.

Walking across America's highest suspension bridge is knee-knocking enough, but Royal Gorge Bridge & Park in Cañon City decided to go even harder with the Royal Rush Skycoaster. On your stomach, you'll sweep 50 mph through the air and dangle 1,200 feet above the Arkansas River.

Royal Gorge Bridge & Park

Denver Museum of Nature & Science

Dinosaurs

Long-necked giants once roamed the Centennial State, and there are sites far and wide to see tracks, fossils and excavation pits.

Sunny Dinosaur Ridge in Morrison is where humans first discovered the Stegosaurus. Kids can compare their feet sizes to the more than 250 dino tracks and visit Backyard Bones, a dig site that teaches tiny excavators how to find prehistoric beasts.

Picketwire Canyonlands is home to the largest dinosaur tracksite in North America, with more than 1,900 prints in 130 separate trackways. Be sure to bring plenty of water for this 11.2-mile, round-trip excursion south of La Junta.

In Fruita, the Dinosaur Journey museum is top-notch for future paleontologists. The hands-on exhibits feature more than 15,000 fossil specimens and a sandbox where visitors can make their own tracks. The museum also offers Dino Digs, where scientists provide training on how to scout for fossil bones.

The fossil-touch carts at the Denver Museum of Nature & Science are the stars of the show in the Prehistoric Journey exhibit. Siblings might relate to the battling Allosaurus and Stegosaurus, and science lovers will enjoy watching fossils being prepped for viewing at the Earth Sciences Lab.

Welcome to More at Gaylord Rockies

Utopia of Family Fun

Make every moment count with outdoor recreation, on-site shopping and family suites with bunk beds for the kids. With space for any group size and activities to fill your schedule, the fun never ends. Take advantage of our seasonal offers throughout the year.

So. Much. Christmas.

Experience Christmas at Gaylord Rockies. Returning for the 2024 season, Gaylord Hotels presents ICE!, featuring handcrafted ice sculptures by master artisans from Harbin, China. The show brings cherished Christmas classics to life with 2 million pounds of ice.

Historic Sites

Your family can absorb what westward expansion was like at some of Colorado's most famous 1800s forts.

Little ones can become Junior Rangers at Bent's Old Fort National Historic Site in La Junta. They'll get to imagine they're building a new trading post, make a map of the citadel and learn about the games children played back when the fort was bustling.

A replica of Fort Uncompahgre in Delta has authentic dirt floors and serves as an interpretive site for what was once a hub of activity on the Old Spanish Trail. Watch reenactors start fires with flint, throw tomahawks and scrape hides.

The El Pueblo Fort was the first permanent settlement in Pueblo, and it has been painstakingly reconstructed to showcase life in the mid-19th century. Sit on a bench in the middle of the adobe structure and imagine what living during these times was like.

Mine Tours

Prospectors came out West in the 1800s hoping to strike a bonanza of gold — your kids will get the chance to put on a hard hat, step back in time and live out one of the momentous eras of Colorado history.

Descend 1,000 feet into Summit County's only real gold-mine tour at Country Boy Mine near Breckenridge. Children will love the ability to pan for gold and meet-and-greet the burros that call the area home.

Grab a hammer or chisel and try your hand at striking gold at Hidee Gold Mine or take a lesson in gold panning at this Central City spot — and keep what you find!

A trip on the historic Georgetown Loop Railroad wouldn't be complete without the Lebanon Silver Mine Tour. In addition to a gold-panning option that also allows you to keep what you discover, you'll actually get to see naturally occurring silver pearls 1,000 feet into Leavenworth Mountain.

LEAVE IT AS YOU FIND IT

When you're outside in Colorado, it may be tempting to pick flowers or take cool-looking rocks. By leaving them behind, the visitors who arrive after you can experience the same discoveries you did.

Museums

No matter your kids' obsession, there's a museum in Colorado to excite them.

Move your body around the Soundscape exhibit and sensors will craft a medley of sounds at the Fort Collins Museum of Discovery. This interactive children's museum is a fan favorite in parenting circles. They even have a Tot Spot for littles with a crawl-through tree and water zone.

At the Art Bar at the Trailhead Children's Museum in Crested Butte, kids' creations come alive in bright colors.

And for aspiring engineers, the Dream It! Built It! exhibit features giant blue building pieces so entire worlds can be imagined and constructed.

At Fire Station No. 1 in the Children's Museum of Denver at Marsico Campus, the city is in danger and toddlers must operate the dispatch station, drive the truck and put out the fire. A giant physics playground with lessons on Newton, motion and gravity rounds out the offerings.

Mesa Verde National Park

Traverse the Ancestral Lands

OF COLORADO'S SOUTHWEST

Colorado's southwest is a haven for those seeking a sense of history, cultural immersions and rugged beauty.

Located in the Colorado Plateau, the sandstone canyons and sage-covered plains of the Mesa Verde region are home to one of the largest concentrations of ancestral sites in the country. Here, you can step into the past and traverse the same paths as the Ancestral Puebloans did over 800 years ago, or walk among their homes and sacred sites to gather a sense of a day in their lives.

While marveling at the landscape and its architectural wonders, it's important to remember that Colorado was colonized on Native territory, and that this region serves as an opportunity to connect with and learn from Indigenous cultures, as well as appreciate the land that joins us all.

Take the time to travel thoughtfully through this landscape by learning the history of the area's first inhabitants, as well as how to respect their culture and ancestral sites.

MIKE WILKINSON

Ute Mountain Tribal Park in Towaoc

Experience Colorado's Native Roots

Colorado is home to two federally recognized tribes, the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe and the Southern Ute Mountain Tribe in the southwestern region of the state. However, Colorado has historic ties with 48 contemporary tribes.

At the heart of this region, the Crow Canyon Archaeological Center in Cortez strives to make the past accessible and relevant for people of all ages so they can learn about the diversity, dynamic cultures and histories of the American Southwest.

“We really like to highlight the unbroken continuity of past and present people. A lot of visitors who are coming from out-of-state often think about Indigenous people as being of the past, that they are no longer here or they abandoned their area or they moved away, and it’s really not the case,” said Sarah Payne, Chief Outreach Officer at the Crow Canyon Archaeological Center.

“There are many different language groups within the Pueblo world. There are also Diné (Navajo), Jicarilla Apache, Paiute and Ute — many diverse cultures and vibrant communities today that maintain their language, traditions and connections to these ancestral places that are very much alive in that sense.”

The nonprofit was founded in 1983 when its co-founders had a vision to build a center that could study the long-term occupation of human history in southwest Colorado. Working in collaboration with Indigenous peoples — preceding the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act of 1990 — the center has been able to produce valuable research and bring free education to the public about this remote part of the world. The center’s website shares 40 years of resources, as well as one of the largest archaeological databases in North America that is accessible to the public.

Crow Canyon’s weeklong travel seminars and workshops incorporate many different perspectives and voices while providing a cultural-immersion experience. Guided by the Cultural Explorations team of tribal members, cultural specialists and archaeologists, small group tours are led into ancestral landscapes and tribal communities in a way that helps travelers connect the past to the present.

However, if you have an itch to become a citizen scientist, Crow Canyon collaborates with the Cortez Cultural Center to host two weeklong archaeological surveys of Hawkins Preserve, a natural and cultural area just south of Cortez. Participants are invited to contribute to the research actively being done in the area to better understand the human occupation of this landscape over thousands of years.

COME TO LIFE

While in the area, Jon Ghahate — Crow Canyon Archaeological Center educator and Pueblo member of the Laguna and Zuni tribes — recommends a visit to Mesa Verde National Park. As the largest archaeological preserve in the U.S., this park protects the rich cultural heritage of 26 tribes, offering a unique window into the past. The park's cliff dwelling tours allow visitors to explore the world-famous masterpiece of architecture and design at Cliff Palace — the largest cliff dwelling in North America. Take the Balcony House tour to follow in the footsteps of the Ancestral Puebloans that once lived there. On this tour, you'll scale the face of a cliff via several tall ladders, squeeze your way through a narrow tunnel on your hands and knees, and explore some of the same passages used over 800 years ago.

The neighboring Ute Mountain Ute Tribal Park is one of Payne's favorite places to visit. Located on the land of the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe who serve as the stewards of the park, this land is accessible only by tour with one of their Native guides. These sacred landscapes also contain ancestral connections to many cultures, including the Pueblo, Ute, Diné (Navajo), Jicarilla Apache and Paiute.

"It's a memorable experience when you can learn directly from tribal members who are carrying the stories, songs and traditions that are tied to such magnificent landscapes," Payne said. "It's almost like stepping back in time, hiking along backcountry trails and through remote canyons with remarkably well-preserved sites."

Then, make your way to the Canyons of the Ancients National Monument Visitor Center & Museum in Dolores for world-class interpretive exhibits, as well as their guidance for exploring trails within the monument. Southwest Colorado Canyons Alliance also partners with the Bureau of Land Management to offer guided tours of the monument.

To the east of these destinations lies the Southern Ute Reservation, where you can deepen your knowledge of Ute history through the exhibits at the Southern Ute Cultural Center and Museum in Ignacio. For an off-the-beaten-path immersion, make your way to nearby Chimney Rock National Monument, the highest elevation Chacoan site in the U.S. Follow in the footsteps of the Ancestral Puebloans of the Chaco Canyon by traversing primitive pathways that have remained unchanged over the past 1,000 years. Explore over 200 preserved homes and ceremonial buildings and make the short half-mile hike to the top of the monument for rewarding 360-degree views of Colorado and New Mexico.

Or experience wellness as the Southern Ute people once did with a stay at The Springs Resort in Pagosa Springs and soak in the rejuvenating mineral waters of the Mother Spring, the deepest geothermal hot spring on Earth. Rooted to the original inhabitants of the area, the town's name "Pagosa" comes from the Ute word meaning "healing waters." As legend would have it, the hot springs water emerged from the ground as an answer to the tribe's prayers, curing them of a great plague that ailed their people. These waters now feed into 25 pools of varying temperatures to soak in and restore your body and soul as the Southern Ute people once did.

LEAVE IT AS YOU FIND IT

From petroglyphs to cliff dwellings and pithouses to masonry towers, there's so much to discover and explore, but it's important to remember to tread thoughtfully. By leaving pottery, rocks, plants, petroglyphs and artifacts as you found them, you'll be helping to preserve these ancestral sites in their true forms. You'll also be allowing visitors the joy of discovery, as well as future anthropologists and archaeologists the opportunity to learn and teach others through experience.

Being mindful of protecting these carefully preserved cultural lands is paramount in ensuring their longevity, while appreciating those that allow us to be here.

"As human beings, it's like you're a guest wherever you go and you're trying to be mindful of those who came before us," Ghahate said.

"When we think about going to visit national parks, national forests and public lands, we're saving them for the future. There are others that are going to be coming down the line and hopefully they can experience the sunset, smell the flowers and see the animals running around. Maybe they'll get the chance to do that in 50, 100 or maybe even 500 years, but again, if we don't take care of it now, that may not come about."

DIG INTO THE HISTORY OF Cripple Creek

Present-day Cripple Creek enchants visitors with gleaming aspen-lined trails and thrill-filled casinos. But the allure of this charming mountain town extends way back to the 19th century, when the rolling green hills and craggy peaks served as a backdrop to the last great Colorado Gold Rush.

Rewind the clock to 1890, when Robert Miller Womack struck gold and staked a claim in the little-known town, setting off a decades-long frenzy to harvest as much precious metal as possible. Within two years of Womack's first claim, 5,000 eager adventurers migrated to the area to set up camp and get in on the riches. That number doubled just three years later.

The town quickly grew into an economic hub, proliferating to neighboring villages Victor, Gillett, Alban and beyond. Before long, the doors swung open at wood-structured saloons, churches, food markets, restaurants and schools in the district.

Prosperity was in the air, but it required a lot of labor. Backbreaking work and dragging days made life toilsome for a Cripple Creek miner. Some days commenced before sunrise and concluded after sunset without a glimpse at daylight. Falling rocks and equipment failure were commonplace and resulted in serious injuries. Rest was rare but rolled around every Sunday when most headed to local churches.

Where to Go: Want to delve into these historical sites in-person? Traverse the Vindicator Valley Trail in Victor, a well-established walking path where you can spot the remains of more than 500 mines along the 2-mile "trail of gold." Along the way, you'll come across blast houses, mine owners' homes and even some old outhouses.

Downtown Cripple Creek

When it was time to put down their tools and emerge from the mine, most men steered straight downtown to the bars and brothels to let off some steam. After a rousing night at the saloon, many community members staggered to the thriving red-light district, home to more than 300 ladies of the night.

Where to Go: Saunter over to the Old Homestead House Museum, the most elegant brothel in town, which was a popular spot with the region's elite. Tour the building, brimming with story-filled artifacts of the era, and tune into tales of the women who lived there and the men who frequented the establishment. You can even meet Pearl de Vere, known as the "soiled dove of Cripple Creek," who ran the operation, famous for her keen business mind and impeccable style.

In 1894, more than 150 mines operated in the area, and workmen formed a union. When the workday swelled and pay didn't increase, the miners went on strike. This lack of labor shut the chutes to most of the mines in the area, causing pressure to build between the strikers, the owners and the military men they hired to quell the unrest. Soon, then-Colorado Governor Waite sat down with both parties and negotiated an eight-hour day with a fair wage. This settlement created some predictability for the local workers moving forward.

Where to Go: Step into the dusty boots of an outlaw at the Outlaws & Lawmen Jail Museum, where you can get a glimpse at the life of prisoners and local law enforcement from this era. Feeling brave? Ask about the paranormal activity in the museum. Over the years, visitors have reported apparitions, mysteriously opening doors, cold spots and other hair-raising encounters.

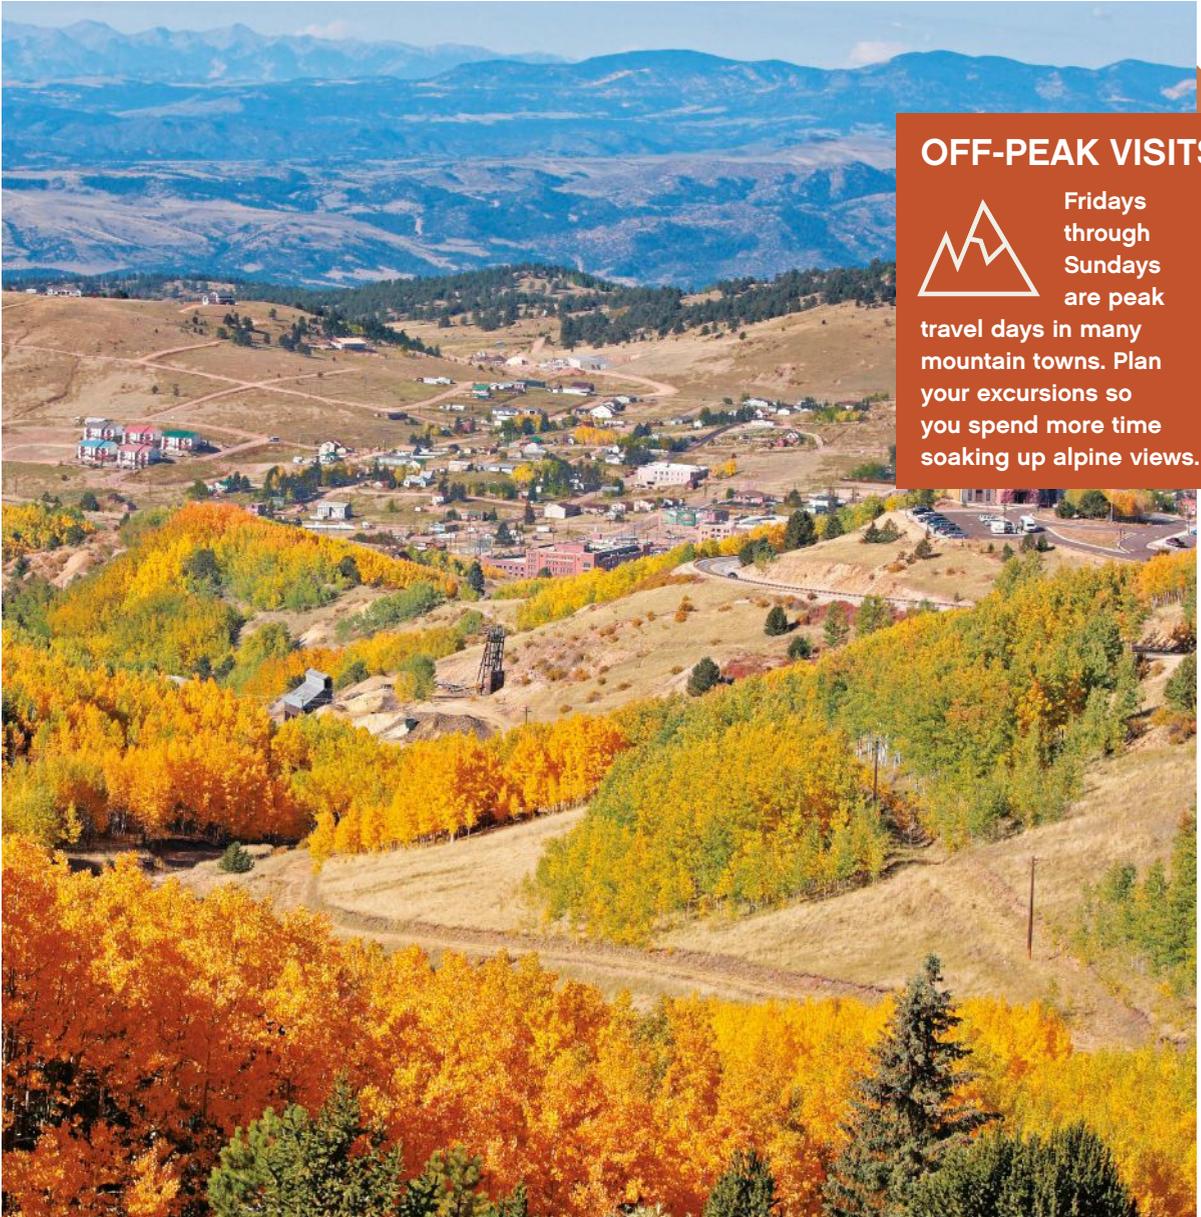

Cripple Creek & Victor Narrow Gauge Railroad

Then, in 1896, disaster struck. Two massive fires within one week wreaked havoc on the area, destroying the business district and displacing nearly all the town's residents. The community rebuilt over the following year, replacing the old wooden buildings with sturdier brick. Many of these landmarks still stand today, including the Midland Terminal Railroad Depot, the Cripple Creek District Museum and the Mansard Roof House.

Where to Go: Get the complete narrative of the Cripple Creek fires, the community impact and the responding rebuild at Cripple Creek Fire Station No. 3. The museum commemorates the bravery of the region's busy firefighters over the centuries.

Despite some massive setbacks, the mines hammered away and the community persevered over the following decade. With that, wealth continued to pile up for the mine owners and elites in the area. Between 1890 and 1910, the region produced more than 1.5 million pounds of gold through the mining efforts of several companies that comprised the Cripple Creek Mining District.

Over the years, the success and output of these mines began to wane. By 1920, the Colorado Springs & Cripple Creek District Railroad stopped running, signaling a halt of economic growth. Many of the once-wealthy owners lost their fortunes. There was a brief revival in the mid-1930s when low labor costs and high gold prices made mining profitable again.

OFF-PEAK VISITS

Fridays through Sundays are peak

travel days in many mountain towns. Plan your excursions so you spend more time soaking up alpine views.

Cripple Creek

However, World War II brought that to a screeching halt. The federal government suspended all gold mining during the war, and many Cripple Creek mines closed for good.

Where to Go: After shutting down, the Colorado Springs & Cripple Creek District Railroad was disassembled and converted into a roadway. But you can still experience Cripple Creek by trolley today. Check out the Cripple Creek & Victor Narrow Gauge Railroad, a steam engine that loops riders past gold-filled excavation sites and other exciting points of interest.

A Modern-Day Gold Rush

A century after the initial rush, the region saw a new boom after passing a 1990 amendment allowing casinos to break ground. Now, visitors flock to Cripple Creek to take their chance at striking gold with gaming — in much more comfortable conditions compared to the prospectors before them. Visitors can try their hand at blackjack, slots, roulette, poker and more at the fun-filled, glowing pavilions.

Despite the industry transition, the town maintains its Gold Rush-era charm today. Establishments overflowing with local history line the downtown, and several tours and museums allow visitors to extract stories from the area's prosperous and colorful past.

EXPERIENCE COLORADO'S Elevated Dining Scene

Four by Brother Luck

Heralded for its towering mountains, pristine landscapes and Western culture, a Colorado vacation doesn't necessarily bring dining to mind. However, the state is fast becoming a culinary destination, thanks to the grit and passion of its tastemakers.

Celebrated chefs are viewing the Centennial State as a new frontier for culinary exploration, carving a space for themselves in the mountain towns and cities to showcase these unique regions and the flavors that thrive there. Blending Colorado's past with fresh takes on classic dishes and innovative creations, they've garnered the attention of television programs like "Top Chef" as well as organizations like the James Beard Foundation and, most recently, the prestigious MICHELIN Guide.

"[The Colorado food scene] is starting to have its own voice, more so than ever before," said Josh Niernberg, executive chef and owner of Bin 707 Foodbar and Tacoparty in Grand Junction.

By showcasing the winemaking and agriculture that had been established in the area, his restaurants helped transform the Grand Valley. They also earned him a nod from the James Beard Foundation as a nominee for Best Chef: Mountains category and two-time semifinalist for Outstanding Chef.

Meanwhile, celebrated chef Denise Vigil has crafted a sanctuary in her small hometown of Alamosa that's quickly gained big recognition as a 2023 semifinalist for the James Beard Award for Best New Restaurant. And in Lakewood, six-time James Beard Award-nominated chef Dana Rodriguez has made the comeback of a lifetime as the Executive Chef and Culinary Partner at the world-famous Casa Bonita after being turned down for a dishwasher's position at the restaurant in 1998.

Celebrity chef and acclaimed restaurateur Brother Luck has spent the past decade working to change the food culture in the city he's planted his roots in.

"We all travel the world until we find a place that we want to call home — for me, it's Colorado Springs," Luck said proudly. "This is a beautiful city that has an amazing view and amazing culture, and I want it to be hip and fun because I love living here."

After cooking in kitchens around the globe, Luck settled in Colorado Springs in 2012 in pursuit of a higher quality of life and to be near family. With the small-town feel of Colorado's second-largest city, the accessible proximity to the mountains and the location at the base of Pikes Peak, he was quickly enamored with Colorado Springs. But the James Beard-nominated chef notes that the food left something to be desired.

“When I first got here, the food was mediocre, there wasn’t much in the way of options, there were a handful of chefs doing really cool stuff, but they were ahead of their time for the masses,” Luck said.

“They said my food was too advanced because I was cooking food from Chicago, and I didn’t believe that — I didn’t believe this was a meat-and-potato town, I didn’t believe this was a corporate-chain town — I refused to accept that.”

It was Guy Fieri coming to Colorado Springs in 2015 and showcasing restaurants for his Food Network program “Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives” that made Luck realize the power of the celebrity chef. Luck invited his community to follow his journey as he championed Colorado’s culinary scene in a time when it was so often overlooked. With TV appearances showcasing his culinary chops, Luck became a household name for Colorado Springs. He found success as a finalist on “Chopped,” winning his episode of “Beat Bobby Flay,” and competing on seasons 15 and 16 of Bravo’s “Top Chef.”

With a bevy of eateries under his wing, he’s carved a space for himself and his crew to learn and grow. He quickly turned the city on its head and pushed the regional palate by incorporating pig ears, roasted yuca and pork belly in his take on street food and comfort fare.

“Over the last 10 years we’ve grown with that approach, so I think the thing I’m most proud of when it comes to Colorado Springs is what we’ve changed as far as food culture,” Luck said, adding that his two newest ventures opened just last year and are social concepts that offer elevated dining experiences to foodies.

In downtown Colorado Springs, Luck’s Folklore Irish Pub pairs the warmth and hospitality of Ireland with delicious foods and patio dining with a few surprises around every bend. Nestled inside the pub, The Tipperary Cocktail Parlor provides a luxury experience promising elegance and sophistication while pushing the boundaries of mixology.

Upstairs, The Studio hosts an intimate and curated chef’s-table experience. Winding down an alleyway, ascending a staircase and emerging in a quaint room that seats only 24 people, getting there is only part of the journey. The Studio is a reservation-only dinner service where those fascinated with the culinary arts have the opportunity to connect with chefs as they cook and serve a five-course meal paired with cocktails and wines from the open kitchen.

BIN 707 FOODBAR

COME TO LIFE

However, it's Luck's signature restaurant that tells the greatest tale. Since opening in 2017, Four By Brother Luck has redefined Southwestern cuisine and earned his nomination as a semifinalist for the 2020 James Beard Best Chef Award.

Four by Brother Luck tells the story of the Four Corners region where he has spent most of his life; the four seasons we experience; the hunter, fisher, gatherer and farmer who bring the food to being, as well as the four-course tastings that the restaurant provides.

"Food is storytelling. We are connecting through the ghosts of our past every time we cook a dish; it's where we all know family, it's where we all know a memory, and it's common across the world," Luck said. "For me, most of my cooking career has been in [the Four Corners] region and I love it — I love being in the desert, and I love being in the mountains. I think there's something very special in understanding who the people are and how this region was shaped."

A focus on Native American and/or hyper-local foods are common passions for Colorado's chefs. The state's unique culinary palate is defined by the cultures that shaped the region, starting with the land's first Native American inhabitants and developing through the European pioneers who traveled west to settle and explore the frontier. The Spanish followed and left their mark with the rise of missions across the area, as well as the formation and expansion of Mexico.

"In the past, probably, 10 years, there's been such a resurgence of chefs trying to find and tell those stories. All it takes is for us to listen a little bit and find some of [that history]," Niernberg said.

Using locally and regionally sourced ingredients prior to the rise of farm-to-table dining and defying industry trends across the nation at the time, Niernberg's restaurants showcase contemporary Southwestern foods. He frequently uses corn, peppers, bison and Colorado lamb, while being conscious of food systems as a whole. Fruit is worked into the menu starting at the summer solstice through September and October. Local favorites, including the region's famous Palisade peaches, are woven into recipes, while more obscure finds like small harvests of the rare elephant heart plums found in a single orchard over the past century make special appearances.

Work & Class

COME TO LIFE

Staples to the Bin 707 Foodbar and Tacoparty menus include two types of beans unique to the region. The Fremont bean which comes from the Fremont people of eastern Utah that once inhabited western Colorado. And conversely, the Mayocoba bean from the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe comes from reservation land south of Grand Junction.

"So we've got several hundred years of history through two different types of beans that we use on the menus at the two restaurants," Niernberg said.

For Luck, his signature blue cornbread is the best depiction of this history. Telling the story of Colorado, Luck sources blue corn from the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe Farm & Ranch's Bow & Arrow

Brand near the Four Corners region and pairs it with buffalo chili made from Pueblo chiles farmed just south of the Springs. The dish is then finished with a black-forest honey from a farm just 20 minutes from the restaurant and served with a Mojave jam, a Native American recipe of berries that have been cooked down with agave or sherry.

"It's such a beautiful dish, but it just kind of captures what this region is about," Luck said, noting that each time he jets off across the world for cooking appearances, he shares a piece of Colorado through his blue cornbread.

"Most people outside of this region don't know those flavor profiles, they've never had a true roasted green chile, and it blows their mind," Luck said. "I love to serve that dish and tell that story because I think it captures what our entire concept is about."

As for must-tries, the tempura jalapeño poppers are another signature dish that have been a staple to his menus over the past 10 years. Roasted jalapeños are paired with a cilantro-spiced cheese and dipped in a very light tempura batter. Fried and served hot, this dish is an elevated rendition of a classic bar appetizer.

"It's crazy, I've cooked it on 'Top Chef,' I've traveled with it, it's just one of those dishes I would never be able to take off the menu because it has such a strong following and it's one of the best things I've ever eaten," Luck said.

While Niernberg and Luck focus on spotlighting the region's flavors, Rodriguez and Vigil use local ingredients to bring international fare to Colorado. Just outside Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve, Vigil serves Italian fare blended harmoniously with Colorado classics like their famous lamb shank. Meanwhile, Rodriguez is cooking up flavors from South America, the Mediterranean and the American South across her restaurants — Work & Class and Super Mega Bien.

However, at the newly reopened Casa Bonita, she is striving for her first James Beard Award with a completely revamped menu. Stepping away from Tex-Mex fare, she's bringing in traditional Mexican dishes reminiscent of her upbringing in Chihuahua, Mexico.

THE MAGIC OF Rocky Mountain Stargazing

Colorado's bluebird skies are beloved by skiers, hikers, cyclists and, well, just about anyone who finds themselves outside during daylight hours. But when night falls, those clear days turn into dark, cloudless nights with nothing obscuring crisp constellations, rocketing meteors and glowing planets. It's no coincidence that our state has some of the best stargazing in the country — its alpine setting creates the perfect conditions for unforgettable evening views.

In fact, in recent years, 15 areas throughout Colorado were designated as Dark Sky Places by the International Dark-Sky Association (IDA). Let's dive into what makes those spots — and so many others throughout the state — perfect for unhindered vistas of the Milky Way.

Gazing skyward at a high altitude increases your limited magnitude — the faintest object visible with the naked eye — so you can see stars that are farther out in the galaxy. And as you go up in elevation, you'll likely start to see more and more clusters appear.

Copper Mountain

Since mountainous areas in Colorado get you that much closer to the skies above, you can simply unzip the tent, step outside and observe the cosmos in their full magnificence. The Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve, with elevations ranging from 7,520 feet to 13,604 feet, is an excellent place to trek up to some of the best Milky Way views in the United States. Schedule your trip around a new moon to ensure complete darkness.

Light pollution is the biggest enemy of proper stargazing. The closer you steer to cities, the less twinkling you see above at night. Higher population areas typically rest within the “light dome,” where street lights, glowing signage, homes and other luminaries prevent visitors from seeing the vast expanses of space. In Colorado, dark places are easy to find for a quick weekend away in the mountains, where the soaring peaks play their part to block the lights from urban areas. Towns like Westcliffe and Silver Cliff make a point to keep the lights off to support the nearby Smokey Jack Observatory, where one of Colorado’s most powerful telescopes magnifies the celestial show in the sky. Classes and stargazing events at the observatory welcome the community and visitors to learn all about astronomy and how to protect their star views for generations to come.

But you don’t need a telescope to get started in the Centennial State — simply head 20 to 30 minutes beyond the city limits of your favorite mountain town, hang a hammock at a campsite and stare for hours at the untouched beauty of space. Late summer and early autumn is the best time to make the trip to towns like La Veta, when the Milky Way is the most visible and rests above the horizon of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains. As evening falls, limit your site’s lights as much as possible to reduce the glow and maintain your night vision.

Wherever you end up on your Colorado adventure, be sure to roll out a blanket, turn off your headlamp and take in the radiance of the region.

Date Nights

FOR EVERY TYPE OF TRAVELER

Sometimes, you gotta branch off from your vacation group for a little one-on-one time with your partner. Whether you prefer a romantic rendezvous, an adventurous outing or a cultural experience, Colorado's cities have something for every couple. Get ready to pick from a variety of excursions and discover the diverse possibilities that await you here.

For Romantics

For those seeking an intimate and affectionate atmosphere, these activities will ignite a spark and create cherished moments of connection with your significant other.

In Denver, immerse yourselves in a world of romance by embarking on a scenic horse-drawn-carriage ride through downtown or take a sunset cruise on the beautiful Cherry Creek Reservoir aboard the Pelican Princess in Aurora.

Boulder provides an ideal backdrop for enchanting activities. Pack a basket full of artisanal goodies from specialty markets like Dedalus, Al's Artisanal Meats and Cheeses, or Organic Bliss and venture to Chautauqua Park for a picnic or a leisurely hike. Not the picnicking type? Try the Victorian-style Chautauqua Dining Hall — a tradition since 1898 with striking views of the Flatirons.

In Colorado Springs, take your love sky high by experiencing a hot-air balloon ride with Rainbow Ryders or Adventures Out West. Drifting through the clouds while taking in panoramic views of Pikes Peak and the surrounding valleys is a sure way to create unforgettable shared memories.

Old-fashioned swan paddleboats are a perfect way to relax and enjoy the tranquility and natural beauty of Blue Heron Lake in Fort Collins. And what could be more lovely than enjoying the literal fruits of your labor by picking your own fruit, flowers, veggies and berries at The Bee Hugger Farm or YA YA Farm & Orchard in Longmont?

Pueblo's not short on opportunities for dreamy excursions, either. Begin your adventure with a peacefully flowing gondola ride along the Pueblo Riverwalk — the Venice of the West!

Grand Junction's majestic landscapes are very different than the rest of Colorado.

GRAND

WHERE LIFE LEADS

PLAY YOUR WAY

Grand Junction is where vibrant music, farm-fresh cuisine and a lively art scene converge with countless outdoor adventures. Here, alpine terrain meets dramatic high desert. Powerful rivers course through verdant valleys, and opportunities for embracing the vast wilderness that surrounds Grand Junction are abundant in every season.

Come follow your passions, indulge your senses and go where life leads. You'll soon see that Mother Nature really does play favorites.

NATURE'S TRIFECTA

Grand Junction is the only place in the world where you can experience three extraordinary geological wonders known as "Nature's Trifecta": Colorado National Monument is a mini-Grand Canyon, affectionately known as "the heart of the world." The Grand Mesa is bursting with over 300 alpine lakes. Rattlesnake Arches is the 2nd largest concentration of natural arches in the world. And now you know, Nature did smile on Grand Junction a little bit more.

COLORADO NAT'L MONUMENT

Just a six miles from Downtown Grand Junction, Colorado's secret national park towers over the city. The Monument is famous for scenic hiking, road biking, and it's pristine sunrise and sunset views. Journey up Rim Rock Drive, pausing at convenient pullouts and majestic overlooks. Stop at Upper Ute Canyon View for the most amazing echo you've ever heard. At night, the clear desert sky shows off the magnificent Milky Way with shooting stars.

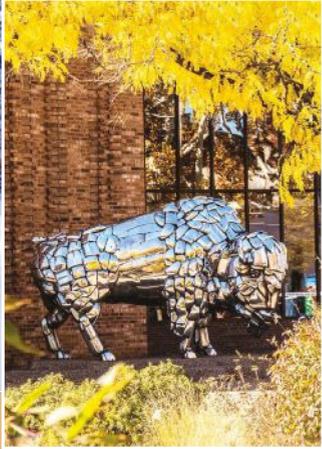

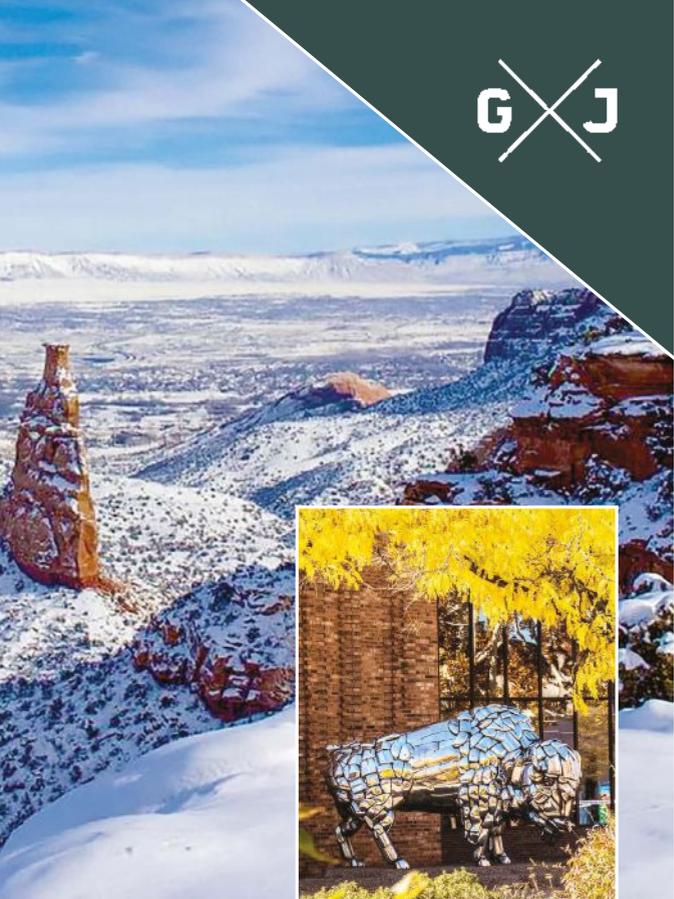

GRAND MESA

Standing tall in the eastern landscape of Grand Junction is the Grand Mesa, the largest flat-top mountain in the world. The Mesa has four distinct seasons of outdoor pursuits, making it a year-round outdoor recreation wonderland. Fishing, camping, hiking, biking, kayaking, skiing and snowshoeing are just a few of the activities that are enjoyed on the Mesa. This unspoiled wilderness is flourishing with aspen groves and pine forests atop the lush plateau.

ARCHES

The McInnis Canyons National Conservation Area's remote canyons slice through colorful sandstone layers to form cliffs, pinnacles, alcoves and arches. Rattlesnake Canyon surprises and delights hikers with over 35 natural arches, the most in the world outside of Arches National Park. All without the crowds!

DOWNTOWN

Grand Junction's historic Downtown is a designated park and pedestrian-friendly zone with over 115 outdoor sculptures and murals that frame the wide sidewalks. Peruse the many avant-garde galleries, chic boutiques, hip cafes and trendy restaurants. Buy a piece of art, bring your DIY idea to life, or relax on the patio and enjoy an après microbrew.

PEDAL PLEASERS

Grand Junction is a utopia for cyclists. Rim Rock Drive, through the Colorado National Monument, is an iconic ride with sweeping views of the canyon country. Mountain bikers dive into the technical twists and turns on Lunch Loops, a local favorite. The Palisade Plunge expert-only singletrack is a 32-mile, adrenaline-fest that drops 6,000 feet from the top of the Grand Mesa to the high-desert floor.

HIT THE TRAIL

The Grand Junction area has over 1.5 million acres of public land - that's 76% of the county and an area larger than Rhode Island and Delaware combined! From OHV'ing in the dense forest of the Grand Mesa to hiking serpentine desert canyons of Colorado Nat'l. Monument, thousands of miles of uncrowded trails await. For some truly inspiring views, hike the Crag Crest Trail or OHV through Rabbit Valley down to the mighty Colorado River.

A SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

Between the Colorado and Gunnison Rivers and the 300 alpine lakes on the Grand Mesa, plentiful water beckons anglers. When hunting season arrives, the Grand Mesa, Uncompahgre, and Gunnison National Forests are prime destinations for big game. Trophy elk, pronghorn, deer, moose, desert bighorn sheep and other game abound, including a huge population of winter waterfowl.

FARM-FRESH FARE

From the famous Palisade Peach harvest to pick-your-own cherry and apple orchards, the agricultural character of the Grand Junction area is thriving. Taste farm-to-fork cuisine and pair with award-winning craft beverages. Local breweries, distilleries, wineries, cideries, and meaderies round out the refreshing libations. Here, the gifts from the land are always in season.

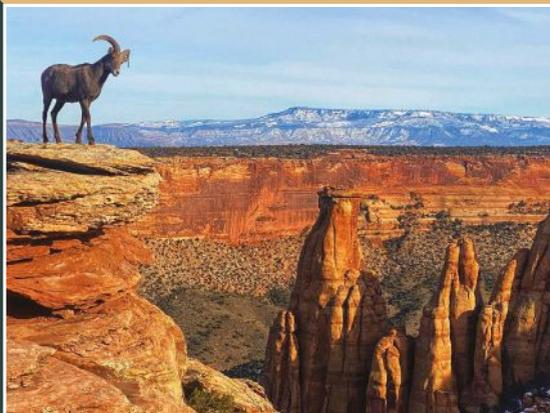

GET WET

Whether your idea of fun is a refreshing float down the Colorado on SUPs right through town or an exhilarating whitewater run through nearby Westwater Canyon, area rivers serve up plenty of places to float leisurely and safely on countless sunny days. Playboaters can hop into the standing waves at Las Colonias River Park near the confluence of the Colorado and Gunnison Rivers, hence the name Grand Junction.

INTO THE WILD

The diverse ecosystems of the area are home to a variety of Colorado fauna. Bighorn sheep, elk, deer, lynx and moose ply the high country. Just across the Colorado River from Downtown, the Riverfront Trail traverses a 1.5-mile paved Audubon path providing delightful opportunities to spot over 200 bird species, including blue heron, osprey, hawks and eagles. As one of only three wild horse sanctuaries designated to protect wild horses in the country, be sure to check out the Little Book Cliffs Wild Horse Range to see the protected bands of wild mustangs who roam freely here. It's a life-changing experience!

WINTER FUN

The Grand Mesa averages 250 inches of light, dry powder each year and has some of the best glade skiing in the state. Powderhorn Mountain Resort is affordable, approachable, and only a short 45-minute drive from Grand Junction. The Mesa also offers backcountry skiing and 31 miles of groomed trails for Nordic and skate skiing. If speed is more your thing, there is access to over 180 miles of backcountry snowmobiling trails to shred.

TEE TIMES

Enjoy a great day on the links with immaculately groomed greens and red-rock canyons rising in the distance at some of Grand Junction's unique golf courses. Tiara Rado and Redlands Mesa (rated the No. 1 course in Colorado by Golfweek) afford golfers stunning vistas of Colorado National Monument. Spectacular views of the sandstone Book Cliffs and other surrounding mountain ranges can be found at Chipeta and Lincoln Park golf courses.

ANCIENT ARTIFACTS & DINOSAURS

Tap into your inner paleontologist and step back 600 million years in time at Dominguez-Escalante National Conservation Area. The rugged canyons are etched with petroglyphs, bridging the chasm between past and present, serving as silent storytellers. Other ancient mysteries are preserved in Rabbit Valley along an interpretive trail through a working fossil quarry, where the remains of 140-million-year-old dinosaurs can be viewed.

STAY A WHILE

Grand Junction hosts the most affordable lodging in Colorado, with easy access from the airport. Choose from 31 hotels as well as inns, B&Bs and hundreds of vacation homes. With many Colorado attractions located within just minutes of the city, it's the perfect hub to base out of. And with fewer crowds than other mountain towns, Grand Junction is the Colorado you expect. The number one comment from guests who visit is – "the locals are so friendly and welcoming!" So come play with us, we look forward to meeting you! So come play with us, we look forward to meeting you!

For Adventure Seekers

There's nothing like exhilarating activities to get your blood pumping and your hearts racing — and maybe clinging to each other for comfort.

Get the adrenaline going with private rock-climbing instruction in Boulder. Cheer each other on as you find success doing something totally new and seeing Colorado's stunning scenery from a different angle.

Leap from a plane high above the green fields of Longmont and the peaks rising in the distance. The Mile-Hi Skydiving Center will show you a mountain view from an angle you won't forget.

The Broadmoor's Soaring Adventure in Colorado Springs does some high flying of its own. You'll harness in to navigate 10 ziplines, rope bridges and a 180-foot rappel — you'll be strapped in, so you'll only fall further in love.

Take a lesson in navigating the rapids in a bright-yellow kayak from Confluence Kayak & Ski. Nothing's more flattering than a wetsuit when you're tackling whitewater turns right in the heart of downtown Denver.

The Broadmoor in Colorado Springs

For Hedonists

Hedonists delight in activities that stimulate the senses. Fortunately, we have a myriad of options for couples seeking maximum pampering and indulgence.

Treat yourselves to a luxurious spa day at renowned establishments such as Denver's Ritz-Carlton and Brown Palace spas or The Broadmoor in Colorado Springs. Embrace a state of pure relaxation with massages, facials and other rejuvenating treatments.

Some pamper themselves through yoga or other sensory treatments like aromatherapy, sound healing, breathwork or float tanks. At Luna Float Spa & Salt Cave in Colorado Springs, you'll find sound-bath healing and couples massages in addition to sensory-deprivation therapy.

Find local studios or practitioners where couples can unlock their chakras and enjoy meditative and mindfulness practices together. The Boulder Shambala Center's guided meditations and classes are some of the best in class. Or improve vitality and increase flexibility with yin yoga and Thai massage at Fort Collins Massage.

For feeding body and soul, try a chocolate-tasting event. Take a class at Boulder's Piece, Love & Chocolate, and learn to make tasty truffles, molten lava cakes, rainbow-colored macarons and more. Or book dinner at the Chocolate Lab in Denver, where every dish and cocktail boasts a chocolate infusion.

For Culture Lovers & Creative Types

Colorado cities' wealth of cultural options cater to couples seeking enriching date nights.

Art aficionados in Denver won't want to miss the world-class exhibitions at the Denver Art Museum, including the 2024's "Biophilia: Nature Reimagined," or the kaleidoscopic art immersion of Meow Wolf. Looking for less of a time commitment? MCA Denver is a smaller, contemporary-art museum that still packs a punch. Bonus: Take in the fantastic city views from the rooftop cafe.

Theater enthusiasts can catch live musicals, comedies and dramas at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center at Colorado College, the Longmont Theatre Company and Pueblo's Steel City Theatre Company. The Lincoln Center in Fort Collins presents everything from Aztec dance fusion to Beethoven and pop music under the same roof as an art gallery with rotating exhibitions. Boulder's Dairy Arts Center presents art-house cinema each month, in addition to dance, theater, exhibitions and classes.

For a one-of-a-kind adventure when in Denver and Colorado Springs, take a short detour to an Art-o-Mat location. These repurposed cigarette-vending machines dispense miniature, one-of-a-kind art pieces created by local artists. It's an opportunity to explore diverse communities and neighborhoods while supporting the local art scene.

All Colorado cities are prime spots for taking in live music — with many outrageously scenic concert spots that performers regularly prioritize on their tours, as well as intimate and historical venues that get you up close to your rock 'n' roll idols.

For Foodies

Colorado's urban areas teem with unparalleled gastronomic adventure for couples who share a passion for culinary delights and love exploring new flavors. Let your taste buds be your guide as you traverse a diverse culinary landscape, with each city boasting its own unique flavors.

In Denver, embark on a captivating foodie journey through the city's vibrant food scene. Start with MICHELIN-starred Beckon, Brutø and The Wolf's Tailor (go to Colorado.com/Michelin to see other MICHELIN-recognized restaurants around the state). Delight in the options at the Denver Central Market or the Denver Milk Market. These food halls showcase a delightful array of vendors serving everything from fresh seafood to artisanal ice cream. Uncover hidden gems in diverse neighborhoods, from trendy eateries on South Pearl Street to Hispanic and Latin cuisine in Denver's North Side neighborhood.

Boulder's License No. 1 and the Boulder Dushanbe Teahouse take center stage in a recent episode of the Max reality-show series "Swiping America." Nestled in the historical Hotel Boulderado, License No. 1 entices guests with its speakeasy ambiance and meticulously crafted cocktails. The teahouse mesmerizes visitors with its breathtaking architecture and immersive atmosphere, offering an extensive menu of teas from around the globe alongside delectable international cuisine. Both establishments epitomize Boulder's foodie culture and contribute to its reputation as a must-visit dining destination.

In Fort Collins, renowned for its world-class craft-beer culture, seize the opportunity to explore the unique flavors and boundless creativity of the city's passionate brewers. In Pueblo, lose yourselves in the colorful local food scene, brimming with diverse culinary options. From family-owned restaurants serving authentic Mexican cuisine and the city's prized green chile to charming cafes offering delectable pastries, Pueblo provides a palate-pleasing outing for every taste.

For couples who revel in the joy of creating culinary masterpieces together, consider a cooking class. Aurora Cooks! in Aurora, Journey Culinary in Longmont and The French Kitchen Culinary Center in Colorado Springs offer several classes where you can learn new recipes and techniques.

So, whether you're an adrenaline junkie, art enthusiast, foodie or someone who simply enjoys new and novel experiences, remember that the right date with the right person can ignite the spark of romance, foster deeper connections and create unforgettable memories.

5 Can't-Miss

COLORADO EVENTS

Colorado's arts, culture, cuisine and history come to life with a multitude of annual traditions and events. From observing the soaring cranes of the San Luis Valley to wandering the booths of a German market in the heart of downtown Denver, there are so many ways to appreciate our state. Here are some tips to help you experience a few of our events to the fullest.

Monte Vista Crane Festival

What better way to immerse yourself in Colorado's majesty than observing birds with 6-foot wingspans dot the sky in front of the snowcapped San Juan Mountains? March's Monte Vista Crane Festival is an event-filled adventure, with craft and nature fairs, crane tours, movie screenings and excursions into the Blanca Wetlands, where you'll learn more about the flourishing marsh's wildlife. Beyond the wild wonder of the cranes, you'll also see elk, ducks, geese and more in the ponds at Monte Vista National Wildlife Refuge. If you're looking for an all-encompassing San Luis Valley trip, 40 miles east of Monte Vista are the golden-brown desert hills of the Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve.

Tips for a great experience: Bring your binoculars to admire these flying fauna from a safe distance and prep for all weather conditions, from rain to sunshine.

Colorado Shakespeare Festival

June through August, one of northern Colorado's most iconic spectacles thrives within the University of Colorado's stone-walled outdoor auditorium: The Colorado Shakespeare Festival in Boulder. No matter your experience with Shakespeare, enter the amphitheater's arched doorway with an open mind and prepare to see classic plays innovatively flipped on their heads. Sit beneath summer's twinkling stars to witness comedies and tragedies from one of the most prominent playwrights of all time. These performances often spill off the stage and into the crowd, transporting you to the Elizabethan era. While you're there, wander around to find other versatile entertainment, from pop-up Shakespeare-merch vendors to small violin performances and photo ops with the Flatirons as your backdrop.

Tips for a great experience: Boulder's wealth of food and drink choices in such close proximity means you can't go wrong looking for a meal before the show. For the ultimate picnic dinner, get that meal to go and bring a blanket or pillow to the performance to supplement the chair you'll receive. Need to reserve a wheelchair-accessible spot? Call ahead and they'll save you one.

Mary Rippon Outdoor Theatre

STAY HYDRATED

One thing's for sure at Colorado's high-elevation events and festivals: You'll need more water than you do at lower altitudes — as much as twice what you'd normally drink. Fill up that reusable bottle to stay hydrated, and also apply sunscreen to protect your skin in our sunny altitudes!

Caveman Music Festival

Caveman Music Festival near Weston

Teeming with spacious grassland, quaint ranches and tree-spotted alpine views, southern Colorado offers a Labor Day weekend bursting with lively mountain-town recreation at the Caveman Music Festival. Bring friends or family to Monument Lake Resort and embrace summer's close with back-to-back concerts, local food and Weston's blue-hued peaks. Ready for an all-inclusive good time? Purchase the Caveman Package, which grants three-day access to the resort's campsites and on-site parking. Sip down some hoppy suds and jam to your favorite country, acoustic, folk and blues artists. And the weekend promises more than just stellar live tunes — you can also ride the gentle waves of the resort's rippling waters on a paddleboard, dip your fishing line beneath the surface or set up camp nearby and listen to singing crickets among the deep-green pines.

Tips for a great experience: If you're looking to get out on the lake, it's easy to rent water equipment from the festival ahead of time, including canoes, fishing pontoons and 14-passenger leisure motorboats.

Colorado Mountain Winefest

Palisade is home to towering mesas, the winding Colorado

River and acres of vineyards, so it's only natural that the Colorado Mountain Winefest shines here. Each September, more than 50 regional wineries congregate on Riverbend Park's lawn to top off your glass with wine and celebrations of their craft. There's no better way to enjoy wine than pairing it with something tantalizing — look out for a smoky baked brie and tart fig jam alongside a raspberry rosé from a Colorado winery. Or take an e-bike tour to savor the bold fruits of Palisade vineyards while surveying sherbet sunsets above striped plateaus. Swoop your dance partner around to live music or smash grapes with your bare feet in a barrel as you munch on handmade macarons from local vendors.

Tips for a great experience: This late-summer bash is fun- and sun-filled, so make sure you apply adequate amounts of high-SPF sunscreen throughout the day, and find shade when you can to stay energized.

Denver Christkindlmarket

Toast more than 20 years of one of the only authentic

German markets in Colorado, spanning from Civic Center Park to the 16th Street Mall late November through late December. Stroll through booths of sparkling lights, dip fluffy pretzels into beer cheese, crunch roasted nuts and visit biergarten booths for fizzy delights after snapping photos with Weihnachtsmann (that's Santa Claus). This quintessentially Bavarian winter scene is the perfect way to appreciate Denver, as well as authentic German cuisine and culture. The dreamiest pics for your next holiday card will be found with red and green lights strung around trees in the background as you soak up the joy of the holiday season.

Tips for a great experience: Come hungry, dress in layers for this outdoor affair and bring your bestie to make a night of it!

Trash is treasure at this walkable outdoor collection of eclectic art in Cheraw. Turn to page 118 to find out more about this bizarre attraction.

Not especially.

Get your prehistoric groove on.

Petrified Wood Gas Station

Although built in 1932, this former gas station in Lamar is constructed with petrified wood that's millions of years old. Check out more info on page 119.

Structures of unusual size?

Want to climb to new heights?

I'd rather stay at eye level (or below).

Things are about to get real cute.

Tiny Town & Railroad

This little amusement park in Morrison has tiny gas stations, churches and a railroad. Turn to page 119 to learn how this tiny town came to be.

Definitely.

Bring along a dragon-sized selfie stick.

Bishop Castle

This hauntingly intricate castle was built by one man and provides sweeping views of rocky hills and lush tree groves. Learn more about this architectural feat on page 120.

COME TO LIFE

Sasquatch Outpost

The magic begins once you see the 10-foot-tall mural of Sasquatch — also known as Bigfoot — on the side of this building. Home to many life-sized statues of the ape-like creature, Sasquatch Outpost in Bailey is the perfect place for any conspiracy enthusiast to muse about truth and legend. Submit your own encounters with Bigfoot for the chance to be featured in the museum. Grab a shirt, mug or sticker, learn more about the history of this mysterious fellow and purchase some camping supplies for your next trip to discover Sasquatch.

Sasquatch Outpost in Bailey

UFO Watchtower

Looking for an extraterrestrial experience? This proclaimed alien-activity hotspot in Hooper has you covered. The blue alien holding the American flag will signal that you've found the viewing platform and eclectic collection of offerings for space beings. Curated by UFO-devotee Judy Messoline, the platform is ideal for encountering the wonders of space. Camp out in the gentle slopes of the San Luis Valley and keep an eye out for flying saucers amid glittering Milky Way constellations.

Junkrassic Park

Adorned with hand-painted art welded from discarded farming equipment like tractor parts and grain augers, Cheraw's Junkrassic Park is a crafty sculpture yard that turns rubbish into rubies. In 1990, retired farmer Johnnie Allen began creating more than 80 marvelous models. Walk through the tall grass to see his unorthodox renditions of bears, giraffes, dinosaurs, Lady Liberty, football players, aircraft and more.

UFO Watchtower in Hooper

Tiny Town & Railroad

Tucked in the sleepy hills of Morrison, this is a small-scale town with a big personality. Originally built by George Turner to entertain his daughter in 1915, Tiny Town has grown into a locally loved landmark with its detailed buildings, traffic signs and petite train set — hop on board for a short ride around the little laundromat, jail and opera house. Stop by the giftshop or slurp a vanilla ice-cream cone while even the kiddos peek over these small streets.

Tiny Town in Morrison

Petrified Wood Gas Station

Despite the resemblance to massive piles of campfire wood, this gas station in Lamar is more than meets the eye. Don't be fooled by its hard-rock texture, either. Fashioned in 1932 by William "Bill" Brown, this structure is composed entirely of petrified wood dating back 175 million years. Although no longer operating as a gas station, this prehistoric construction is a must-visit spectacle that doubles as a used-auto dealership.

Bishop Castle

From towering stone spires and winding iron staircases to elaborate archways and vaulted windows, Bishop Castle is a medieval display in modern-day Rye. Jim Bishop started building this artful feat of architecture himself in 1969 and encourages visitors to safely tour its great halls and platforms. Look up and you'll see the castle's metal-scaled dragon, its fanged mouth open in a mighty roar. And the castle isn't the only view — from its heights, gaze upon Rye's rolling pine-tree-laden knolls.

5 Adaptive

COLORADO ADVENTURES

Colorado's mountains and parks welcome visitors of all abilities. From skiing and hiking to horseback riding and biking, there are many adaptive ways to experience the Rockies, and many organizations that make it easy to do so.

1 Skiing in Colorado's High Country

As the country's No. 1 ski destination, Colorado offers endless skiing opportunities, from Aspen and Beaver Creek to Breckenridge and Eldora. Winter Park's National Sports Center for the Disabled guides you down hills of fresh powder by teaching adaptive alpine skiing, snowboarding, snowshoeing and more. Or head to Vail and glide down the slopes on a mono-ski with a trained professional via Vail Adaptive Learning Programs. Tear through snow on a ski bike, a more balanced bike seat on skis that only requires work from your arms and core, with Crested Butte's Adaptive Sports Center to experience Colorado's winter sports with accessibility.

2 Rock Climbing in Telluride

If there's a perfect place for rock climbing, it's the craggy peaks and cliff faces of the San Juan Mountains. The Telluride Adaptive Sports Program allows people with disabilities of any skill level to strap into assistive and safety equipment and follow natural routes, all led by guides. From the crag, you'll see winding rivers, pine-tree groves and snowcapped peaks underneath our signature bluebird skies.

3 Biking in Durango

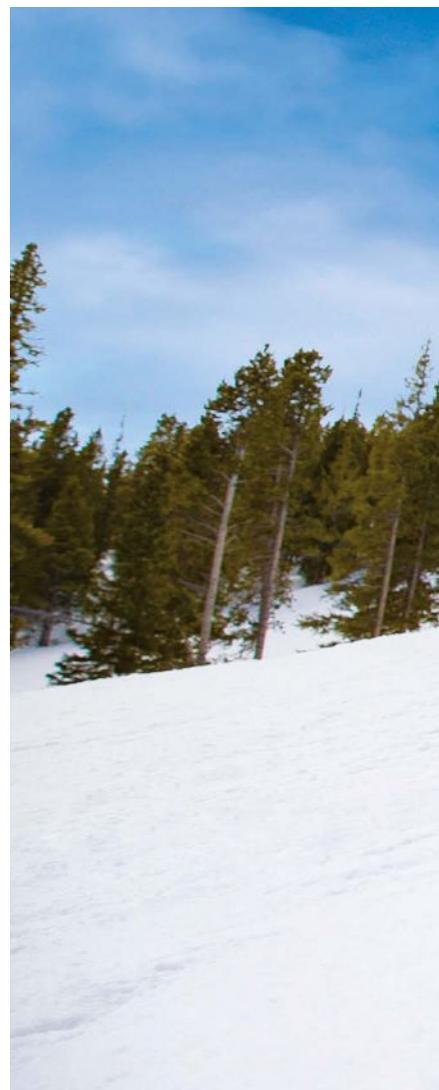

With a breadth of bike-trail networks, Durango practically beckons to explorers on wheels. There's a trail for every mountain biker and skill level, especially with the help of Durango's Adaptive Sports Association (ASA). Rent an ASA cycle or accessibility-adapted trike — a much more stable way to cruise — and follow a guide along the beginner's course of the Animas River Trail, where you'll hear the rushing river and glimpse the distant rolling hills.

4 Horseback Riding in Steamboat

Bountiful in hot-spring pools, charming brick architecture and grand ridges, Steamboat Springs is a sightseeing haven for nature enthusiasts. Why not see it all on a laid-back horse ride? Steamboat Adaptive Recreational Sports hosts therapeutic horseback lessons with breathtaking high-country views for any rider. Peacefully trot around wildlife habitats — while keeping a safe, ample distance from animals — through stretching meadows of yellow wildflowers the way cowfolk did (and still do!) in the area's idyllic mountainside ranch fields.

5 All-Terrain Wheelchairs

From June through October, folks of every physical means can tour the mesas and behold the sweeping horizon of Staunton State Park, an hour from Denver. Colorado Parks & Wildlife's Track-Chair Program allows travelers using wheelchairs to trade wheels for rolling tracks along 13 miles of trails. The durable GRIT Freedom Chair at Rocky Mountain National Park is also designed to conquer the park's terrain and give visitors in wheelchairs expansive mountainous displays. Want to leave your mark on the curving hills of Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve? Their balloon-tire wheelchairs travel easily over the sand and prevent sinking as long as you've got a strong friend with you — the chairs take some effort to push. Be sure to reserve in advance!

SHARE OUR PARKS & TRAILS

 Everyone experiences and enjoys the outdoors in different ways. Be mindful: Wheelchair users, adaptive cyclists and equestrians always have the right of way. In all other instances, always yield to the uphill hiker and biker — they need the momentum.

EXPERIENCE The Big Screen

AT THESE DESTINATIONS

The silver screen loves Colorado's soaring peaks, rushing rivers and historical trains. From laugh-out-loud comedies to old-fashioned Westerns, walk in the footsteps of some of Hollywood's greats on your next trip.

San Miguel River near Telluride

Furious 7

If you too were shocked, awed and amazed at the airdrop scene in “Furious 7” — the one where Vin Diesel and crew reversed out of an airplane, hurtled through the air, pulled parachutes and landed cars onto a mountain road — you weren't the only one.

You can drive that same stretch of road up to Pikes Peak, near Colorado Springs. Once you're at the top, take in those fourteener (mountains over 14,000 feet) views and enjoy the world-famous doughnuts.

Continue following their high-speed chase through nearby Woodland Park, where downtown Bergstrom Park provides an excellent vista of America's Mountain.

The Hateful Eight

The towering and jagged San Juan Mountains are inspirational for anyone, but especially Quentin Tarantino when he was scouting for “The Hateful Eight.” Just outside of Victorian-era Telluride, those snowy scenes were filmed on the surrounding fourteeners and along the San Miguel River.

Be sure to visit Telluride Elks Park, where Tarantino and Samuel L. Jackson took part in a ceremonial burning of the skis — a local ritual to bring more snow. Gossip blogs say the cast and crew enjoyed meals at 221 South Oak and Allred's Restaurant, went ice skating in Town Park and got zen at nearby Orvis Hot Springs.

The Stanley Hotel in Estes Park

The Shining & Dumb and Dumber

Looking to be spooked? Stephen King was inspired to write The Shining after a one-night stay at The Stanley Hotel, just down the road from Rocky Mountain National Park's entrance. Take the tour to see The Shining Suite, the lovingly re-created bathroom and an ax from the film.

And while no one enjoys being stood up, recreate the iconic "Dumb and Dumber" scene where Lloyd (Jim Carrey) is waiting for his dream girl at Cascades Whiskey Bar. Order an ice-cold Coors Light or a Stanley Old Fashioned — it is a whiskey bar, after all.

Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid

The stunning backdrop of "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" train robbery scenes can be in your photo album if you ride the 1882 Durango & Silverton Narrow Gauge Railroad.

You'll cross Animas Canyon in style, with the echoes of the steam whistle as you unwind in nature — there's no Wi-Fi on this 3.5-hour journey (both ways) so it'll feel like you're part of the Western. The railroad also does event excursions like a fall photo special, "The Polar Express"-style holiday rides and brew trains.

SCOTT DRESSEL-MARTIN

True Grit

For six weeks, a film crew turned the center of Ridgway into an 1880s Western set for the John Wayne-classic “True Grit.” The firehouse is now an art studio and, on Clinton Street, see Rooster Cogburn’s residence. At the Ouray County Ranch History Museum, visit the jail wagon the character brought back.

True Grit Cafe is the ultimate end to your trip. It’s festooned with actor and movie memorabilia. A mural, Chamber’s Staple & Fancy Groceries, from the feature was preserved as the restaurant was built around it. Wear your cowboy hat and order the “Grit” sandwich, it’s their famous chicken-fried steak triple stacked on a brioche bun topped with bacon and white gravy.

Thelma & Louise

Put the top down, play some ‘90s tunes and feel the wind in your hair like “Thelma & Louise,” and head toward Unaweep Canyon (near Gateway) on the Unaweep Tabeguache scenic and historic byway.

Translated from Ute, its name means “Canyon with Two Mouths,” and it’s the only canyon in the world where the creeks flow out in opposite directions. It offers some of the best granite climbing outside of Yosemite.

Constructed in 1882, the Bedrock Store is also featured in the flick. Snap some photos of you and your friends pretending to be on the lam — oversized sunglasses and headscarves required!

Casa Bonita in Lakewood

South Park

Denverites can tell you stories of childhood birthday parties at Casa Bonita restaurant; the same goes for Matt Stone and Trey Parker, the creators of animated mainstay “South Park.” One episode finds Cartman on the run from the law inside the eatery.

He takes part in all the activities, including snacking on sopapillas, sprinting through haunted Black Bart’s Cave and finally making his very own cliff dive — yes, the restaurant has a massive waterfall inside where trained cliff divers do shows.

Make your own mad dash through the recently renovated space (with an updated menu) and catch the puppet show and mariachi band.

Cumbres & Toltec Scenic Railroad

Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade

In the opening scenes of “Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade,” a young Indy (played by River Phoenix) tussles with bad guys and escapes to a beige stucco house with green trim and a mailbox that reads, “Jones,” where his father (Sean Connery) sits inside reading.

Today, the Antonito house looks identical to the way it appeared in the film. It’s now the Indiana Jones Bed & Breakfast, filled with Indiana Jones memorabilia. The B&B is a short walk from the Cumbres & Toltec Scenic Railroad, where many of the train scenes took place. From late May to mid-October, you can shoot your own adventure scenes as the train traverses stunning wilderness areas.

Aspen

How the West Was Won, The Cowboys, The Searchers, Cat Ballou, The Naked Spur & More

The Centennial State screams Old West vibes, which makes sense as to why more than a handful of the most famous Westerns have been filmed here.

Feel like you’re James Stewart, Henry Fonda or Gregory Peck at one of the many dude ranches that call Colorado home. At some, you can get down and dirty with farm chores — like moving cattle and mending fences. At others, you can snack on bottomless cookies, raft through whitewater rapids and horseback ride across wide-open spaces. They all offer landscapes that look the same as they did in the 1800s, with rustic Western beauty.

Guided Adventures

TO ELEVATE YOUR ITINERARY

Look around and you'll see it's no wonder people flock to Colorado every year to get their outdoor-adventure fix. From our staggering peaks and pristine waters to our lush forests and vibrant landscapes, immersing yourself in the Colorado backcountry is a rewarding experience that will refuel your soul. But oftentimes, the biggest hurdle is knowing where to start. Activities like rafting, fly fishing and backpacking can seem unapproachable to newcomers, and this is where a local guide can come in handy.

These experts can help you feel comfortable, safe and confident in venturing out for a wide range of outdoor activities, no matter your experience or skill level. They'll help you push your body and mind to places you might never have gone on your own — and that sense of accomplishment and communion with nature could be the most enlightening and restorative experience of your life.

Some call it a sport, while others call it a lifestyle — either way, fly-fishing is a favorite and peaceful pastime for many Coloradans. It's hard to know if you want to invest in poles, waders, flies and other equipment if you've never felt that magical and sudden tug on your line and the frenzied effort to bring your catch in. Heading out with an outfitter gives you the perfect taste of this specialized activity. A guided excursion with ArkAnglers in Salida or Buena Vista will have you creating graceful arcs with your line in no time. Their team of seasoned anglers offers full- and half-day fly-fishing trips, including a Fishing 101 course that's great for those dipping their first wader-covered toe in the water.

Fast, fun rapids. Unparalleled scenery. Abundant wildlife. While not for the faint of heart, multiday rafting tours are a once-in-a-lifetime Western experience. You'll form deep bonds with your raft companions and never have to worry about setting up camp, preparing meals or keeping yourself safe thanks to the knowledgeable and seasoned guides that are integral to making these trips successful. Two of the most popular tours with Mild to Wild Rafting & Jeep Tours — the Yampa River and Gates of Lodore trips — take place in and around Dinosaur National Monument in Colorado's northwest corner. The area's rapids wind paddlers through quartzite cliffs, dramatic alcoves and Fremont Culture petroglyphs carved in cliffs that frame the river. These trips also allow you the opportunity to get out of the water and explore the area on foot while the expert guides set up your living space each night, as well as prepare satiating three-course meals for breakfast and dinner, as well as casual, picnic-style lunches.

Ready for a land-based excursion, but don't love a calf-burning climb? Leave the hiking to someone else and increase the heart-pounding-adventure factor by traversing Colorado's rugged backcountry on an ATV or UTV tour. Both exhilarating and educational, excursions offer a well-rounded journey you'll remember for the rest of your life. San Juan Backcountry in Silverton offers three-night guided tours through some of the nation's most remote and beautiful landscapes, where you'll pass cascading waterfalls, wildflowers galore, fascinating ghost towns, century-old mines and more. You can also choose from two-hour, half- and full-day tours, which can include a ride on the Durango & Silverton Narrow Gauge Railroad.

Did you know llamas can carry up to 30% of their body weight? This is just one reason they make exemplary hiking companions — they'll carry everything you need for overnights in Colorado's forestland, freeing you up to simply soak in the beautiful scenery as you mosey along. Paragon Guides' Llama Treks, including the popular Vail-to-Aspen route, are three- to five-day excursions through lush mountain landscapes. Daily distances range from 5 to 8 miles, and the llamas will keep you company as well as free you of the burden of your food, water and other gear. Treks include professional guides, transportation, meals, sleeping bags and camping equipment. Find other backpacking trips that take care of the heavy lifting at Colorado.com/LightenYourLoad.

Hut trips are one of the best ways to embrace the true essence of Colorado high-country winter, offering the perfect and coziest reward at the end of an invigorating day of trekking and tracking through remote landscapes. Colorado's 10th Mountain Division Hut system provides a framework that's considered the apex of these kinds of excursions. The huts were built to house WWII soldiers training to fight in high altitudes, and while they're well-equipped to provide warmth and rest after a day in the sun and snow, making your way between them requires knowledge of the area, maps and superior navigation skills. Aspen Expeditions can provide a complete escape into the wilderness for those of all ages and abilities. Their all-inclusive experience takes care of the food, hut reservations, sleeping bags, backpacks and avalanche-safety equipment — leaving you to focus on making your way to the campfire and hearty meal waiting inside these alpine cabins.

Cathedral Spires near Pine

As the sun appears on the horizon and the grass rustles under your boots, a majestic creature casually walks into your field of vision. There's tension in your knees from the position you've been holding, but — at last — the time has come. The thrill of the hunt is upon you. Most people don't have the leisure time required to scout out and plan a successful big-game hunt. When you team up with folks who do this for a living, all you have to do is throw on your high-visibility orange and set off for adventure. With Story Creek Outfitters, you'll prowl in the shadow of the lush and rolling Spanish

Peaks near Walsenburg, enjoying comfortable accommodations, food and transportation while hunting on private land. Story Creek specializes in custom big-game hunting trips, pairing you with a professional guide to show you the most prolific areas on their property — for hunting elk, pronghorn and more.

You've likely seen spectacular images of climbers scaling some of Colorado's most dramatic rock faces and thought you'd never take that daring leap. But with a climbing guide, you'll learn the basics of the gear and how to use it to rappel, move and finesse techniques.

These patient outfitters craft an educational expedition that's tailored to your specific goals. Apex Mountain School offers guided trips near Vail and the surrounding area, as well as a couple favorites of the local climbing community: Eldorado Canyon outside Boulder is known for its breathtaking views and top-rope, traditional and multi-pitch climbing for all skill levels. The Cathedral Spires near Pine also feature incredible multi-pitch climbing, including some of the state's best crack climbs, as well as a beginner course and single-pitch climbs for those who wish to stay a little closer to the ground.

MORE THAN FOUR SIDES: Explore Colorado Culture

For a state that looks like a rectangle on maps, Colorado is a multifaceted gem when it comes to culture and heritage. Discover our Western roots in high-elevation mountain towns steeped in mining history. Marvel at Native American cultural sites that are literally like no other in the world. Immerse yourself in events celebrating Hispanic heritage and creativity. And see how our artists and makers are inspired by the spirit of the state while exploring one of our 30 Certified Colorado Creative Districts. Here are just some of the many ways you can soak up the culture of Colorado.

Aurora

Within Aurora, find a beautiful tapestry of culture and heritage. Taste these histories and traditions through cuisine at numerous restaurants, whether you're eager to savor Polish pierogies (dumplings), Cuban pastelitos (fruit- and cheese-filled pastries) or fragrant Ivorian jollof rice (a tomato-based spiced rice). Continue your deep dive at the Aurora History Museum; their biennial Mosaic of Cultures exhibit celebrates the city's many different communities. And there's always something exciting happening at The People's Building — a multi-use art space with a stellar lineup of musicals, lectures and exhibitions, as well as the Aurora Fox Arts Center, which hosts everything from cabaret and the blues to theater for kids. Explore more on the self-guided Colfax Canvas Mural Tour in the Aurora Cultural Arts District. Get maps and audio guides at colfaxcanvas.com.

Denver's Cinco de Mayo celebration

Denver

Our capital is brimming with so many cultural experiences that it's hard to know where to begin. Start with one of the city's five Certified Colorado Creative Districts, abuzz with galleries, public sculptures, shops, art walks, trendy eateries and places to enjoy drinks and dancing. On the self-guided Five Points Historic Walking Tour, trace the steps of Denver's Black history via interpretive signs. Make an appointment to visit the nearby Black American West Museum & Heritage Center to learn about Black cowboys, ranchers and settlers in the former home of Denver's first Black doctor. At Museo de las Americas, explore Colorado's Latin heritage via 4,800-plus pieces of artwork spanning ancient American to contemporary times. Each spring, Cinco de Mayo celebrates Denver's Mexican community with dance performances, food and live music, like brassy mariachi and the polka-esque sounds of norteño. In Little Saigon, savor subtle notes of lemongrass while slurping Vietnamese pho (noodle soup), tuck into Chinese dim sum and find a multitude of shops in which to treat yourself to authentic boba teas.

Leadville

Set amid some of our tallest peaks, the former boomtown of Leadville is ideal for immersion in the state's mining history. At the National Mining Hall of Fame, see artifacts and explore replicas of mines. Or tour the real deal at Matchless Mine, the site responsible for the fortune of locally famous silver magnate, Horace Tabor. Soak up Old West vibes while taking in a performance at the Tabor Opera House — a stop on the Colorado Historic Opera Houses Circuit. If you're in town in August, don't miss the Leadville Boom Days Pack Burro Race, in which runners urge pack-loaded burros through the Victorian-era Main Street and up mountain trails in a tribute to the town's mining past.

Cortez

Cortez sits at the heart of the Trail of the Ancients scenic and historic byway, a route that cuts through ruddy deserts where breezes are sweetened by sagebrush and the whispers of Colorado's first inhabitants. At the Cortez Cultural Center, take in Native American dance performances and rotating art exhibits. Along the byway, you'll find the famed sandstone cliff dwellings of Mesa Verde National Park — a UNESCO World Heritage Site — as well as the architectural wonders of Hovenweep National Monument's 700-year-old towers. Thanks to remote locations that lend themselves to clear views of constellation-pierced skies, both are known as excellent stargazing spots.

Book a night at the Canyons of the Ancients Guest Ranch, where the Star Tower and Sky Kiva guesthouses were inspired by the likes of Mesa Verde and Hovenweep. They also offer easy access to yet another fascinating area heritage site: Canyons of the Ancients National Monument. In nearby Towaoc, learn about the Ute and Ancestral Puebloan peoples, their art and architecture at Ute Mountain Ute Tribal Park. This land is sacred to the Ute people; you must book with one of their guides to enter. If you're eager to explore more, take a short side trip off the byway to Ignacio's Southern Ute Cultural Center and Museum, where exhibits take you from prehistory to modern day.

LEAVE IT AS YOU FIND IT

As you explore, keep the enchantment of these places intact by taking nothing but pictures and leaving nothing but footsteps. Learn more at Colorado.com/LNT.

Palisade

Palisade

Nestled beneath the Grand Mesa, the world's largest flat-top mountain, is charming Palisade. Known for succulent stone fruits and for being the crown jewel of Colorado wine country, the town celebrates its agricultural heritage at festivals throughout the year. Join in at August's Palisade Peach Festival, which comes alive with a parade, peach-eating contests, a barbecue throwdown, live music and, of course, plenty of dishes starring sweet Palisade peaches. Learn more about the area's agricultural roots at the Palisade History Museum, a tiny log cabin jam-packed with Palisade's past. Travel further back at the 3.3-mile Palisade Rim Trail, a steep climb that pays off with scenes of stunningly well-preserved petroglyphs depicting bowhunters and deer.

Pueblo Chile & Frijoles Festival

Pueblo

Pueblo's industrial heritage was forged in 1881 when its steel mill opened, attracting Italian, Greek, Slovenian, Polish, Irish and German immigrants and Black Americans. See how their cultures enrich the city to this day at locally loved restaurants Franks Meat Market, Paletaria Y Neveria Durango, Tortilleria Delicias or Giodone's Italian Bar and Grill. Also inspired by Pueblo's steel industry is Fuel & Iron Food Hall; housed in a former historical hardware shop, the food hall's locally owned eateries dish up ramen, bison specialties and tacos among other fare. Browse the past — and purchase a piece of it to take home with you — at numerous antique shops dotting Union Avenue. See more of the city's culture in the Pueblo Creative Corridor; among other creative delights are exhibits at the Sangre de Cristo Arts Center and Neon Alley — an alleyway awash in the vibrant colors of vintage neon signs. And it's fair to say that the Pueblo green chile is a Colorado cultural icon. Mildly fiery and slightly sweet, the beloved pepper is celebrated annually at the Chile & Frijoles Festival — three days of spicy magic with a chihuahua parade, hot-air balloons, a farmers' market and food demos.
